Sicily Defenders Set at 144,000

By EDWARD GILLING
Representing the Combined
British Press

AN ALLIED COMMAND POST IN THE MEDITERRANEAN AREA—Allied sources say enemy forces defending Sicily may consist of 12 divisions. (The total thus would range up to perhaps 144,000 men. London sources on Saturday placed the total Axis forces on Sicily as ranging upwards to 400,000 men.)

Two of these probably are German, the remaining 10 being five Italian coastal divisions and five Italian infantry divisions.

Macfarlane Sworn

The oath of office was administered by Chief Justice Farris in Vancouver today to Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane as a member of the Supreme Court of British Columbia. The new judge fills the vacancy caused by the promotion of Mr. Justice Robertson to fill a vacancy on the Court of Appeal bench caused by the death of Mr. Justice McQuarrie.

Italian Cavalry Charges Paratroops

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA (AP)—Parachute troops never know what to expect when they hit the ground, so they're seldom surprised—no matter what they meet.

But members of one group of the Allied "fighters from the skies" got the surprise of their lives at an unidentified objective in Sicily when they were charged by Italian cavalry. The paratroops won.

Government to Pay

VANCOUVER (CP)—A fine of $150 was returned today to Benny Lagos, Quathiaski Cove fisherman, when his conviction on a charge of fishing outside the area for which he had a license was quashed by Judge J. O. Wilson.

In addition, the crown was ordered to pay him more than $1,100 for the 1,250 fish he had aboard his boat the Oehve.

Say Battle Grows

LONDON (CP)—Berlin radio declared tonight in comment on the battle of Sicily:

"Now heavy armored units are on their way to the front line; the battle for Sicily has begun and will continue."

The broadcast was heard by the Associated Press.

Italian Claims

LONDON (CP)—The Italians claimed in a communique today that Axis forces in Sicily had counterattacked successfully against Allied invasion forces and that "fighting continued fierce and uninterrupted."

The communique, broadcast from Rome and recorded by the Associated Press, also claimed "the Allied forces vainly tried to increase the size of the occupied coastal areas."

Exchange Union

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian financial experts have put forward a plan for an "international exchange union" with a potential capital of $12,000,000,000 and a certain initial capital of $8,000,000,000 as an approach to solution of the problem of fluctuating values of money in the post-war world.

Their draft proposals were tabled in the House of Commons today by Finance Minister Islay.

Drive for Unskilled Workers for Shipyards

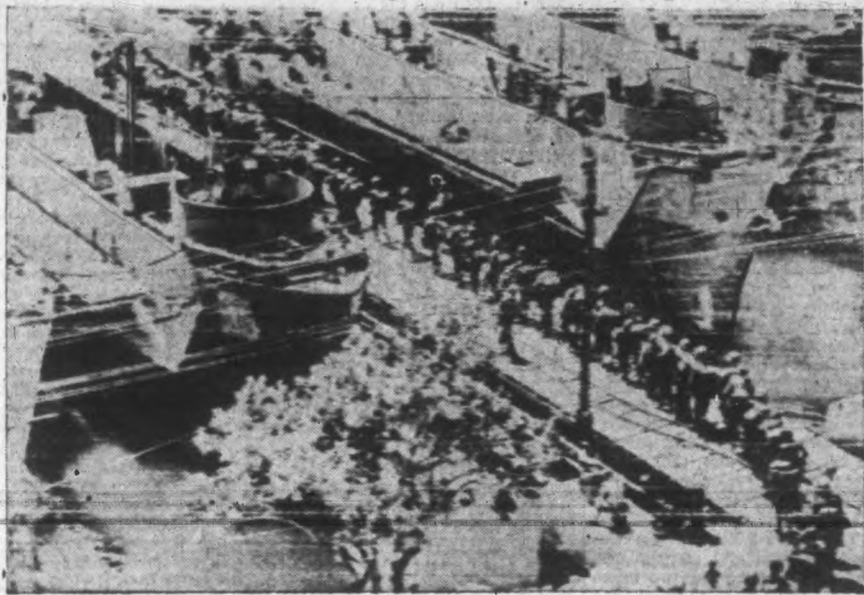

Six Victoria and Vancouver steel shipyards, assisted by National Selective Service, within a week will launch a campaign to obtain desperately needed unskilled and semi-skilled workers.

A committee to work with William McKinstry, regional supervisor for Selective Service, was named at a meeting in Vancouver Saturday, and includes Charles A. Clements, Victoria Machinery Depot, and F. B. McConnell, Yarrow Ltd.

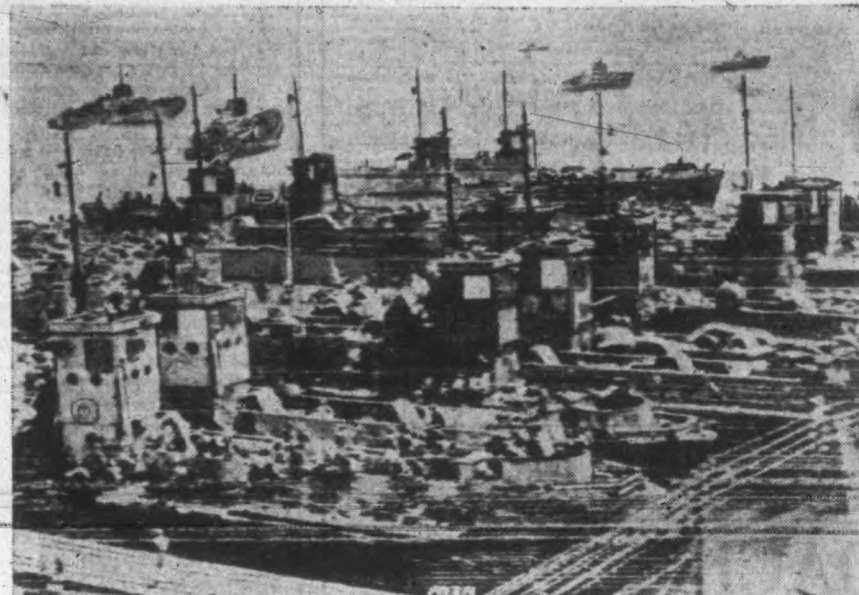

The plan is to recruit men now employed in non-essential industry as listed in Ottawa's three job transfer orders to date.

ASSAULT TROOPS GO ABOARD—As the Allied invasion of Sicily gets under way, these assault troops march aboard LCI. (Landing Craft: Infantry) barges just prior to the take-off. Upon arrival, these barges glide up on the beach to send forth soldiers racing ashore from gangplanks let down in shallow water. (Radiotelephoto-Signal Corps).

INVASION BARGES SETTING OUT—Here in an undisclosed north African harbor, a long line of Allied craft, 2,000 of them altogether, are loaded with troops and material for the gigantic amphibious operation of invasion of Sicily. In the background are seen other boats, already loaded, and steaming out for the assault. (Radiotelephoto-signal Corps).

8th Day of Battle Shows Nazi Attack Beaten Back

By WILLIAM MCGAFFIN
MOSCOW (AP)—Field Marshal Guenther von Kluge's armored columns began the second week of the Kursk offensive today on much the same ground where it opened July 5.

After seven disastrous days of battle, the Germans have succeeded only in minor gains with the loss of 2,500 tanks and 1,068 planes chalked down on the debit side of the ledger, Soviet operational communique reports.

(The German radio in a broadcast recorded by the Associated Press claimed that in the Belgorod area they had captured 28,000 Russian prisoners since July 5 and had captured or destroyed 1,640 tanks and 1,400 guns.)

WRECKED 34 TANKS

There are few details available on the present situation in the Belgorod breach at the southern end of the 200-mile central front, but the Russians have reported they repelled a Nazi attack by more than 100 tanks, including the new 60-ton Tigers. Red Army artillery and aviation protecting the Russian infantry destroyed 34 tanks and dispersed the remainder, the Russians said.

Altogether the Russians say they have repelled 10 German attempts to advance on the Belgorod sector.

While still working hard to break through the Belgorod area, the Germans attacked strongly in the Orel-Kursk sector at the northern end of the Kursk salient.

KILLED 2,000 NAZIS

Up to 400 tanks and a large force of infantry attacked on one narrow sector. The Russians reported many tanks destroyed and more than 2,000 men killed. At another position on this front Soviet aviation broke up a German attack before it could get under way and the Soviet infantry followed up in a counter-attack which dislodged the enemy from two settlements.

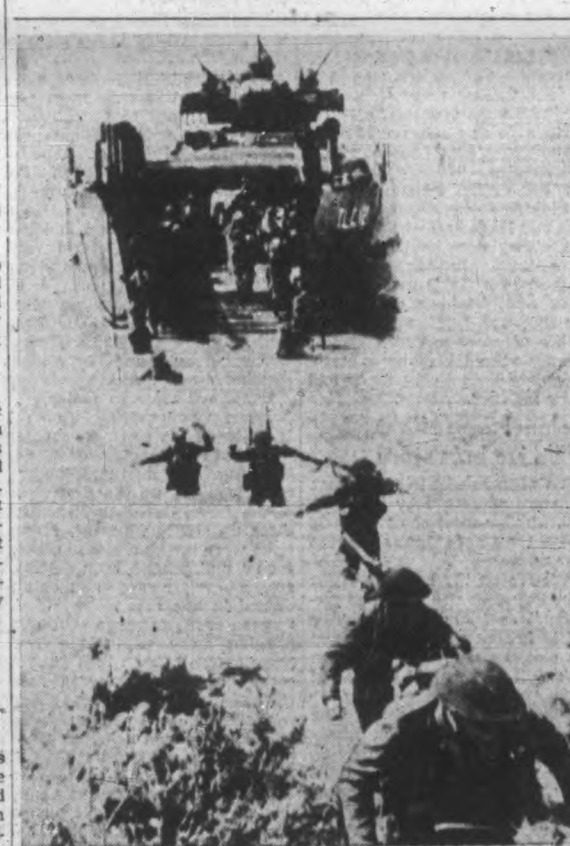

Turkey Hails 'War's Turning'

ISTANBUL (AP)—Istanbul's 14 newspapers, which circulate throughout Turkey, announced the Allied invasion of Italy with screaming headlines, and editorially termed the action the turning point in the war.

The news pushed everything else—even the battle in Russia—off the front pages, and widely-read commentators, including some who normally favor the Axis, told readers the importance of the development could not be overestimated.

ALLIED TROOPS LEAVE FOR ASSAULT—Waving a hearty north Africa "so long," these troops aboard an Allied craft leave an undisclosed harbor just prior to the invasion of Sicily. These barges played an important part in the Allies' gigantic amphibious operations. (Radiotelephoto-Signal Corps).

HOW ASSAULT TROOPS LANDED—Tank units in the Canadian forces participating in the Sicily invasion landed on the shores there and immediately moved into the attack. They left their special tank carrying ships exactly as shown here during manoeuvres which prepared them for the Sicilian attack. This is the Canadian commando units first chance to get at the Axis forces since the raid on Dieppe. (Telephoto).

More Canadians Reach N. Africa As Reinforcements

By WILLIAM STEWART
ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA (CP)—Protected by a powerful warship escort, a troop convoy has just brought to North Africa several thousand Canadian reinforcements from Britain, ready and eager to get into the fighting in Sicily.

They were landed in north Africa within 24 hours of the start of the invasion of Sicily by Canadian, British and American sea and air-borne forces.

Canadian medical personnel and a number of Canadian nursing sisters, as well as British troops, made the uneventful voyage through calm seas. Canadian gunners manning the anti-aircraft guns of the troopships, like the sailors aboard the protecting warships, saw no sign of the enemy during the voyage.

SAILED AT DUSK

Neither the officers nor the men knew their destination when the ships sailed at dusk from a British port.

Aboard one of the ships were 15 war correspondents, including Louis V. Hunter, Maurice Desjardins and I. all three representing the Canadian Press. As we neared our destination the ship's public address system broke the news of the Sicilian invasion and the fact that Canadians were participating.

Some of the troops spent only three months in Britain before moving to north Africa. Others, like Wallace Grant, Minnedosa, Man., trained in England much longer.

Some had a natural stake in Axis-occupied territory in Europe—the parents of Pte. Harry Wasend of Loon Lake, Sask., were Norwegian born; the parents of Pte. Bill Fushulak of Tiny, Sask., were Ukrainians; L.Cpl. L. Y. Christensen of Winnipeg and his brother, Pte. Wallace Christensen, are of Danish descent, and Pte. Ches Penozek of Vancouver is of Polish parentage.

SECRECY UNBROKEN

Secrecy was perfect, at least aboard our ship.

Until the vessel put into a small Mediterranean harbor the troops were uncertain where they were going and although Africa seemed a certain bet it wasn't a sure bet by any means.

Once the convoy entered the Mediterranean the ships' captains told their army passengers that the danger zone of the voyage had been reached and advised them to be prepared for anything. But the peaceful weather and the orderliness of routine aboard ship proved a deterrent to any feelings of nervousness.

45 Nazis Bagged

Navy Continuing Landing Operations

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA (AP)—With the Italian fleet still noticeable by its absence, Allied naval forces continued large-scale operations of putting ashore on Sicily more and more Allied troops and equipment, although the Allied communique today said the enemy's air opposition was increasing.

Swarms of Allied fighters patrolled the beaches, protecting the operations, however, and 45 enemy aircraft were shot down Sunday. Only nine Allied planes were lost.

Casualties among the Allies continued much less than might normally be expected in such a sweeping offensive, and it was said at Allied headquarters, and a number of hospital ships were still waiting in reserve.

One Allied hospital ship, which was fully lighted and anchored three miles off the Sicilian coast, was sunk Saturday night by enemy bombers, but the 400 wounded were successfully transferred.

As a result of the swiftness of Allied action, it was said at headquarters that the enemy was being compelled to regroup his forces and most of his counterattacks up to now had been comparatively weak.

Most of the Italians, especially, were reported fighting poorly, and most of the 2,000 prisoners taken were Italians.

An Allied headquarters communique said:

"Few details are available of the work of the navy during the past 24 hours.

"The task of disembarking troops and their supplies on all beaches continues according to plan.

"On the whole, weather conditions have improved, though enemy interference from the air has been on a slightly increased scale.

"Defended areas near the coast town of Pozzallo, 12 miles west of Cape Carrenzi, and the railroad line between Syracuse and Ragusa were bombed Sunday night by our destroyers.

"The surrender of Pozzallo was accepted by the commanding officer of a destroyer during the early afternoon Sunday.

"Our ground forces have continued to make good progress.

"During the course of the day heavy enemy counterattacks which were being made with tanks have been repulsed and at least 2,000 prisoners have been taken."

There in Spirit

LONDON (CP)—The Rome radio said today that Mussolini had sent this message to the defenders of Sicily:

"I am with you in spirit in your magnificent fight for defence of the fatherland and with it of European liberty."

The broadcast was heard by the Associated Press.

Missing Girls Found

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two Victoria girls, one 15 the other 17, who had been missing since last week-end from their homes on Vancouver Island, were picked up by city police on a Vancouver street Sunday morning. The girls will be returned to Victoria.

DIRECTION OF ALLIED ATTACK—Sicily's airfields were the major objectives as Allied forces launched their invasion. Arrows indicate the general direction of the attacks from Africa. (Telephoto).

Syracuse Falls, Catania Next; 2,000 Prisoners

By DANIEL DE LUCE
ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, NORTH AFRICA (AP)—Gen. Bernard L. Montgomery's British armies raced toward Catania from captured Syracuse in a tremendous push up Sicily's east coast today after Allied forces had captured nine other important ports and towns, turned back seven counterattacks by enemy tanks and captured 2,000 prisoners, mostly Italians.

An Allied headquarters communique said:

"It can now be stated that the following major towns and ports have been captured by our forces:

"Syracuse, Avola, Pachino, Pozzallo, Scoglitti, Gela, Licata, Ispica, Rosolini and Noto."

The communique made no mention of Catania, which an Algiers radio report said was also captured.

Heading units of his famous British 8th Army—with which the Canadian forces are associated for the operation—Gen. Montgomery plunged toward Messina and the strategic straits some 80 miles northward after securing firmly the advantageous port of Syracuse, a city of 53,000 and potential springboard for invasion of the Italian mainland. Leading the western crescent of the Allied attack, Americans under Lt. Gen. George S. Patton crushed heavy enemy armored counterattacks in the Licata-Gela area, some 80 miles west of Syracuse, and advanced northward of Gela.

25-Mile Bridgehead Held By Americans

The Americans were holding a bridgehead 25 miles long and 10 miles deep after taking Licata and Gela on the "south coast," said a dispatch from the Allied command post by Edward Gilling, representing the combined British press. Their equipment already was being unloaded at these ports.

(Florida, eight miles inland from Syracuse, already is in British hands, said another dispatch.)

Allied warplanes already were sweeping the skies from airfields captured in Sicily.

They had left Catania, the next objective of the British march, aflame, and they had divebombed columns of Axis troops being brought up for counterattacking, destroying 400 or more of the enemy's vehicles.

Allied naval forces, unhampered by the Italian fleet, continued to pour men and supplies into the bridgeheads stretching for 100 miles along Sicily's southeastern coast for the rapid push up Sicily's eastern shore, and hurled shells into the enemy's communications and defenses.

U.S. troops in the Gela area beat off counterattacks by the Italians' 4th Livorno Division and 45 tanks in the heaviest of all the seven enemy counterblows.

British Chase Off Napoli Division

The 54th Napoli Division was driven out of Syracuse by the British—a lightning blow at the end of the second day of the Allied invasion—which appeared to be a serious handicap to the enemy in bringing up reinforcements to meet a rapidly swelling penetration into the interior of the island.

The civilian population "seemed more pleased to see us than they had been to see the Huns," said one observer.

The swift occupation of the string of ports and towns along a 100-mile stretch of Sicily's southeastern coast was accompanied by a furious air action Sunday in which fleets of fast fighter-bombers smashed at least 400 enemy vehicles endeavoring to rush up troops and supplies for counterattacks, and heavy blows by four-engine and medium bombers at Catania, on the east coast, the Sicilian airbases of Milo, Sciacca and Gerini and two other airbases at and near Reggio Calabria on the Italian mainland.

Eyewitness Tells of Fighting

Canadians Crash Through Sicily's Beach Defences

Following detailed eyewitness story by Ross Munro, Canadian Press war correspondent, of the Canadian assault in southeastern Sicily, covers the period up to July 11, when the Canadians sliced through Italian coastal defences after their landings the morning before.

By ROSS MUNRO
 AN ALLIED FORCE COMMAND POST (Dedead, CP) — Canadian assault troops with a crack British formation on their right flank overran Pachino Peninsula on Sicily within 24 hours after their landing had established an invasion bridgehead.

It has been one success after another in this Canadian-British sector as the greatest combined operation in history is developing.

Canadians now have advanced into hilly country northwest and west of the fishing town of Pachino and major engagements are expected with probably more determined resistance than that put up by the Italian coastal defenders who staged only a mild fight when the Canadian and British forces first landed on the Pachino Peninsula, which is tipped by Cape Passero.

The night and day have been one incredible series of incidents. I landed alongside the first wave of assault companies of a famous Canadian regiment on a sandy beach at Costa del Ambrò, four miles southwest of Pachino, at 6.15 Saturday morning.

Hard to Keep Up With Attackers

The Canadian troops have been rushing ahead ever since. It is a tough job keeping up with them on two feet.

Casualties for the first day were very light. A colonel who heads a divisional medical service said that fewer than 40 casualties had been reported to him so far. During my trip around the battle zone I saw only three wounded soldiers, who had been hit while cleaning out a pillbox just before the beach defence collapsed.

There is a British hospital ship in our convoy now. It is lighted up at night.

(Allied headquarters in north Africa reported Monday that a lighted British hospital ship had been sunk by enemy bombers but that the wounded had been rescued. There was, of course, no indication whether or not this was the same ship Munro reported as being with the Canadian convoy.)

The Italian beach defences which folded up like a concertina were merely barbed wire and some machinegun posts which fired a few bursts and then gave up. On our beach the enemy was evidently counting on a sandbar 15 feet off shore as a natural defence. But the Canadians surprised them completely by coming in on heavy surf and battling ashore through water to the waist.

Coastal batteries shelled the landing boats, but the fire was erratic. The Canadians went through the beach defences in a matter of minutes and struck inland, mopping up groups of Italians en route. More than 700 prisoners, including 15 officers, have been captured already by the Canadians.

Italians Happy To Be Prisoners

All day columns of prisoners poured down from the front, a happy-looking crowd, guarded by one or two soldiers.

The Royal Navy had been giving the troops magnificent gun support, and big and small warships lying close to shore bombarded their targets with thundering salvos which shake the peninsula.

During the day he saw no enemy aircraft. It seemed eerie not having any about.

The beach looked like a big traffic jam with tanks, guns and trucks plowing through the sand to roads leading inland. It was almost unbelievable to Canadians that this first stage could be so easy. But once the Axis army gets reorganized to try to cope with this surprise descent on the coasts, there may be stubborn fighting.

There are some German formations in Sicily and the enemy has some tanks. The Canadians realize they met poorer Italian soldiers on the beaches and around Pachino and they are not being misled that the road ahead will be easy. But everyone keeps asking "where are the Italian navy and air force?"

I started this story of the first day in a slit trench on my cliff-top position and it is being finished now in the early morning aboard a headquarters ship. This is the story of my trip on the beaches, the assault and the follow-up.

Saturday night bombers attacked the troops near the beach and tried to hit our ships under the glare of dropped flares. The raid lasted only about 30 minutes and was not effective. Our ack-ack from ships and shore was terrific, filling the sky with red balls of tracer.

Barrage Balloons Above All Ships

The R.A.F. has been giving us fighter protection and you could hear the drone of Spitfires practically all the time during the day. Our ships have their barrage balloons up and look like part of the London scene.

Thousands on thousands of troops poured on the bridgehead after the successful assault and vehicles, guns, stores and ammunition have been rushed to the beaches.

The attack was the stuff the men had prepared for in intensive combined operations training in Britain. Immediately after the exercises the convoy carrying assault troops sailed for the Mediterranean, and they went right to these Sicilian beaches without being attacked by aircraft.

The entire 2,000-mile trip was made without any trouble—fantastic considering that we sailed in daylight right through the Sicilian channel and the Malta channel toward Pachino Peninsula with the whole invasion armada concentrated in one gigantic convoy.

The day before the attack we started to head in the general direction of Sicily, and everyone was keyed to a high pitch. In the morning the wind started to kick up whitecaps on the Mediterranean which up till then had been as calm as a millpond.

Encounter Heavy Sea As Troops Near Coast

The wind rose steadily until by afternoon it was of gale proportions. By that time we could see Malta. Our spirits sank for we thought the operation would have to be postponed. Our small boats could not live in that sea. Some of the waves were 15 feet high and a heavy swell was running. But there was bright, burning sunshine—and no message came telling us the job was off.

A colonel told us the attack was to go on. At last we were definitely on our way. There was quite a strong surface swell, though, and it wasn't going to be any sinecure landing on what everyone knew to be a tough beach with a sandbar stretched across the face of it.

During the evening (Friday, July 9) we learned from the headquarters ship that the Pachino airfield had been plovered up. Some thought perhaps the Italians had got wind of our attack. But secrecy had been maintained 100 per cent. The attack was definitely a tactical surprise, according to headquarters staff officers.

Down in the mess decks the Canadians were preparing for their landing. They got their kits together, dabbed a little more oil on their weapons, sorted out grenades and loaded up with ammunition. They were having a whale of a time. In the sergeants' mess some N.C.O.'s were playing cards and drinking soda pop—our ship was "dry" all the way. In the officers' lounge a British Tommy played a piano expertly—playing some lively tunes and a few melancholy ones.

Colonel Says Night Will Live in History

The officers met in the lounge and were addressed by their colonel. Similar meetings were held aboard the other ships as the zero hour approached.

"We are on the eve of a night in history that will never be forgotten," said the colonel. "We will look back on this night, and our children will. We will look back on it as the night we started to put the skids to the enemy." Then everyone repeated the Lord's Prayer and shook hands all around.

The meeting broke up. I went on deck and watched our convoy in the moonlight. There was still no air attack. Unbelievable! At midnight we saw great flashes in the distance where Sicily lay. Our bombers were hitting their targets. Tracers reached into the sky. There were some coastal searchlights playing over the sea. We were too far out then to be bothered by them.

Earlier we had all been getting a little jumpy for it looked like suicide to try to land in the wild sea. We had the evening meal and were becoming reconciled to a possible postponement. But when darkness fell we were still heading for the southeast tip of Sicily.

Allied Ships Covered the Ocean

Hundreds upon hundreds of other ships and warships were around us—the greatest convoy ever to sail to the attack. There were ships as far as you could see. About 10 p.m. the wind suddenly dropped and the whitecaps disappeared. The gale had been one of those queer storms they get in the Mediterranean during the summer. Sometimes they do not last long, and this one didn't.

The high command gambled on the wind falling—undoubtedly it had the weather "taped"—and won. Then the big convoy broke up. The Americans headed off for the Gela beaches. We sailed right ahead under a first-quarter moon that glided the ocean. The sky was clear and crowded with stars. It was a Mediterranean night of fiction and peacetime cruises.

I could hear our bombers droning over towards Italy. Some flares shot up from the shore. They were unnerving and lingering. I was going in with the naval motor launch which was to guide the assault troops to the right beaches.

At 1 a.m. we went down the side of our ship in an assault landing craft and hit the beach, which lifted us high in the air. We rocked about and moved among the ships which now were anchored a number of miles off Pachino peninsula. Finally we located our motor launch and clambered aboard. There were scores of these 40-foot craft bouncing about in the swell. Many of the troops were seasick in them.

Through a megaphone our commander told the flotillas destined for our beach to follow him, and we started off. Other flotillas sped off noiselessly for other beaches. British commandos were on the Canadians' left flank and another British formation on the right.

PACHINO BLAZE

Crack units were to land first and destroy a coastal battery. Ahead of us we could see a glare in the sky. The air attack and naval bombardment had set Pachino ablaze. Wooden buildings in the town of 15,000 population were burning.

To the left I saw tracer bullets and could hear the bang of machineguns. Troops were landing. We crept in closer until we could see the low, dark coastline of Sicily in the shadows. It was a thrilling moment but a tendency towards seasickness took a lot of the edge off it for many of the men. Some red flares shot up, lingered and snuffed out. The enemy was doing some kind of signalling. Tremendous explosions boomed out in the night. I think it must have been bombing far inland. We could see gigantic flashes.

On our right there were more flashes, but this time from seaward. Warships of the Mediterranean fleet were shelling positions on the peninsula. The noise was ear-splitting, though the ships were miles away.

Some Royal Canadian Engineers from Nova Scotia and two companies of an Ontario regiment were touching down ahead of us. They were spurred by machine gun bullets at their boats. Then I heard our Bren guns. The Brens have a distinctive knocking sound like a stick striking an oak door.

Canadians were in action. Dawn was creeping up as I transferred from the motor launch to a landing craft for beaching. Just then tank landing craft bringing up the first wave of the Royal Canadian Regiment came up and in we went. Naval craft were laying a smoke screen for us, and gunfire from destroyers, a cruiser and a monitor dined in our ears.

Some beach defences were still pegging away with their final shots before being wiped out. A coastal battery halfway between the beach and Pachino was firing with six-inch guns. Shells crashed in the sea around us. They were too close for comfort but did not hit a thing.

Canadians were swarming over the beach and our craft leaped through the surf in smoke, confusion and noise. The landing craft hit the sandbar and stopped short. We piled over the side and plunged into four feet of water. I suddenly thought of Dillep and wondered who would be writing this story, for it looked plenty hot here.

But we waded frantically through the breakers and ran onto the beach. Troops swarmed assault infantry. The beach was a conglomeration of soldiers, vehicles, landing craft, wireless sets, and hand carts of supplies. Four hundred yards from the beach I went around a sharp turn in the road and saw the first prisoners. They were six short, swarthy Italians dressed in soft forage caps and flimsy grey uniforms. One carried a satchel with food and wine in it. He seemed to have been prepared for capture. They looked anything but good soldiers and when the Canadians gave them the odd cigarette to see what would happen their faces lit up.

They were evidently quite content with their lot and as we passed they grinned, said hello in Italian and gave us a Fascist salute.

Ottawa Expects
Nixon to Win
With Cut Majority

OTTAWA (CP)—Federal cabinet ministers and Liberal M.P.s will enter the Ontario election campaign in support of the Nixon government. If Parliament sits until near the election date this assistance may be somewhat limited, but arrangements are being made to see that substantial federal backing is given Nixon candidates on the hustings in any event.

The forthcoming election contrasts with that of the 1937 Hepburn appeal in that the provincial and federal Liberal parties are now a unit behind the Ontario premier. Charges that Premier Nixon is under the thumb of the Ottawa government are obviously untrue. But there is now a real degree of governmental and political co-operation between Queen's Park and national Liberal authorities. This is not only conducive to a stronger war effort, but should also help the Nixon cohorts in the approaching poll.

Best opinion here seems to be that the Nixon government will be returned with a reduced majority. It is believed that both the Progressive Conservatives and C.C.F. will make some gains in Liberal ridings and considerably increase their popular vote as compared with 1937. But observers claim there is little to indicate that Liberal losses will reduce the government's majority.

War developments permitting, it is regarded as probable that there will be a federal general election next year. For that reason all Ottawa parties are keenly interested in the outcome of the Ontario voting. It is believed that the Nixon government will receive strong rural support and retain the French-Canadian vote, which dominates at least 21 ridings. This gives the Liberals a flying start which, with what urban votes they can secure, is thought to presage re-election of the government.

Killed in Air Raid

WELLAND, Ont. (CP)—Word of the death of Capt. Robt. W. Harcourt, son of city treasurer A. W. Harcourt and Mrs. Harcourt of Welland, was received here Sunday. Capt. Harcourt, a native of Golden, B.C., and his wife, the former Ethne Goobrand Murray of Edinburgh, Scotland, were killed in an air raid on England. A grandson of the late

LONDON (AP)—Losses which "may well prove fatal" to Japan's navy are noted along with a great increase in United States naval power in the latest issue of "Jane's Fighting Ships," released by its publishers today.

The increase in strength of the Royal Canadian Navy is reflected in the five pages needed to list the Canadian ships, as compared with three for the 1941 edition. There is an increase in vessels of all divisions of the R.C.N.

ITALY LOSSES 50%
OF FLEET

Discussing the Italian navy, the book's foreword says, "its losses in destroyers, in seagoing torpedo boats and submarines are suspected to amount to about 50 per cent of its prewar strength."

...probably only one out of seven heavy cruisers is left afloat.

"Altogether, therefore, the Italian navy is in a parlous state, and the remnants of what was once considered a fine, modern fleet, seem likely to lie in harbor until they fall into Allied hands."

"Japan, on the other hand, continues to make the free use of her cruisers and destroyers in the Pacific, undeterred by her heavy losses. The most serious of these was the destruction in the battle of Midway of the aircraft carriers Akagi, Kaga, Kiryu and Soryu. This blow, added to the previous sinking of the Ryu-kaku, has imposed a handicap which in the long run may well prove to be fatal to Japan's naval aspirations."

Where the 1941 volume showed Japanese losses of 1 battleship, no aircraft carriers, 7 cruisers, 11 destroyers and 6 submarines, this one gives 2 battleships, 5 aircraft carriers, 28 cruisers (plus 7 more torpedoed), 57 destroyers and 18 submarines, exclusive of "midgets."

The list of losses of the United States is also a lengthy one. No more capital ships have been added to the two lost at Pearl Harbor, Dec. 7, 1941, but the aircraft carrier category went from none to 4, cruisers from none to 8, destroyers from 4 to 27, submarines from 1 to 6, and miscellaneous craft from 5 to 46.

LOSES 100 DESTROYERS

Britain continued to be the top loser of all the countries. There was no increase in the toll of 5 capital ships, but the loss of the Eagle and the Hermes pushed the carrier listings to 5, although it is possible that the Indomitable and others of her class may have gone into service to restore the carrier strength. Cruiser losses rose from 13 to 25, destroyers from 63 to 100, submarines from 35 to 50, and miscellaneous craft from 232 to 314.

Illustrative of the conservatism shown by the reference work are the figures on German submarine losses, which are given as 47, as against 11 in the previous volume. German destroyer losses are up from 13 to 30, but the cruiser Leipzig, previously listed as sunk, was removed from the loss list.

Sees Moral Collapse

LONDON (CP)—The Archbishop of Canterbury, Sunday, called British morale "magnificent" in endurance, mutual helpfulness and constancy, but said there was "really an alarming collapse in the respect of honesty and sexual morality."

"Sexual sin is not the only sort of sin," the Primate told a meeting of men. "The supreme sin and fountainhead of all others is pride, not lust."

"But if we let this function be used for our pleasure and amusement, we are spoiling one of the most splendid things in the world."

He asserted Britons are united in a determination to win the war, but people are not conscious of injuring the war effort by dishonesty, or by sexual indulgence, and added that the only cure is "a return to the first principles."

Hon. Richard Harcourt, one-time Ontario Minister of Education, Capt. Harcourt graduated from the University of Toronto in 1934 and was called to the bar in 1937.

Today's WAR NEWS Analysis

By DE WITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The tight-lipped Allied high command is doing much and saying little about the invasion of Sicily, but our information is sufficient to tell us that we have established our bridgeheads along a 100-mile stretch of the southeast coast of the island and thus have successfully inaugurated the greatest amphibious attack of history.

Through these gaps in the Axis defences are pouring the reinforcements, machines of war and supplies which will enable the troops of the United Nations to reduce one of the most important defences of southern Europe.

It's likely that we have a fierce and bloody struggle ahead of us before we master this battle-ground of the ancients, but we would seem to have broken the back of the job already, for establishment of the bridgeheads was the crucial task.

STRADDLE PENINSULA

Canadian and British troops are astride the peninsula which forms the southeast tip of Sicily, ending in Cape Passero. One German military analyst asserts Commander-in-chief Eisenhower apparently is bent on establishing a front across this southern corner, between the city of Gela on the west and Syracuse to the north. One would say that the Allies not only intend to establish such a front but apparently have done so already.

There naturally are no official figures for the forces involved. However, London observers placed the Axis strength in Sicily at about 400,000 men, including considerable German reinforcements.

Berlin is toying with figures which indicate they believe the Allies are drawing from a reservoir of close to 1,000,000 men in Africa, and that there may be 450,000 effectives involved in the actual assault. The Nazis also place the Allied air force in the Mediterranean theatre at about 4,000. The invasion fleet of 2,000 ships is the greatest ever assembled.

Whatever the exact figures may be, the essential point is that the United Nations seem to have sufficient resources of all sorts in the Mediterranean to turn the trick.

Where will the Allies aim for, now that their bridgeheads are established? One logical line would be to head up the coastal road along the eastern shore, through Syracuse to Messina, which lies on the narrow strait of the same name.

One would expect the Allies to get to Messina as quickly as possible. This is the terminus of the mainland railway, trains being ferried across the strait, which is only two miles wide at its narrowest point. Since Messina is the sole railroad on Sicily, its capture obviously would cut the island off from its main communication.

Actually Sicily must be pretty well isolated already. The Allies have mastery of the air, which means that any shipping which essays the rip-tides of the dangerous Messina waterway is unlikely to reach its destination. That is to say, the Italians and Germans on Sicily must depend largely on the resources already collected there.

Youths To Be Transferred To Essential Jobs After July 24

OTTAWA (CP)—The fourth compulsory employment transfer order lists specifically a wide range of work from which youths of 16, 17 and 18 will be transferred to more essential jobs after July 24.

The specific jobs mentioned in Labor Mitchell's announcement are those contained in the first and second transfer orders issued some weeks ago. The minister announced some time ago that he had been given power to transfer youths covered by those orders. The fourth order is the one putting that power into effect.

There is no official indication how many youths of 16, 17 and 18 will be affected, but the number is believed to be large since it covers even those who plan to return to school next autumn.

The third order, issued recently, applied to youths as well as to men of age groups subject to compulsory military service, and so the occupations listed in it are not included in the fourth order.

OCCUPATIONS LISTED

Following is the list of occupations to which the new order applies:

"1. Any occupation in or associated with the following: (a) Barber shops and beauty parlors; (b) distilling alcohol for beverage; (c) dyeing, cleaning and pressing; (d) guide service, shoe shining; (e) entertainment, including but not restricted to theatres, film agencies, motion picture companies, clubs, bowling alleys, pool rooms; (f) operation of ice cream parlors and soda fountains; (g) manufacture of feathers, plumes and artificial flowers, chewing gum, wine, lace goods, greeting cards, jewelry; (h) retail stores; (i) factory production of statuary and art goods; (j) retail and wholesale florists; (k) retail sale of confectionery, candy, tobacco, books, stationery, news; (l) retail sale of motor vehicles or accessories; (m) retail sale of sporting goods or musical instruments; (n) service stations (gasoline-filling stations); (o) taverns, liquor, wine and beer stores.

"2. Bus boy, charman and cleaner, custom furrier, dancing teacher, dish washer, domestic servant, doorman and starter, elevator operator, greens keeper, grounds keeper, hotel bell boy, porter (other than in railway train service), private chauffeur, taxi driver, waiter."

FOR WAR EFFORT

"I might explain the fourth order simply," said Mr. Mitchell, "by pointing out that in effect it brings young men of 16, 17 and 18 years of age under the first and second compulsory orders, both of which originally applied only to men in classes designated under mobilization regulations."

"The objective of the fourth order is to make the young men affected available for transfer to work which is of more importance to Canada's war effort."

"Any of the young men in the age groups mentioned who will be returning to school at the opening of the autumn school session, will not be stopped by the order from again attending school," said Mr. Mitchell. "However, even though intending to return to school, young men in the classes affected who now are in the employments listed, working during their summer vacation period, must comply with the compulsory order."

Young men covered by the fourth order must report to the nearest employment and selective service office not later than July 24.

It was emphasized by Mr. Mitchell that the third transfer order, affecting both men from 16 to 18 years and also men callable under mobilization regulations, is still current. It requires the men involved to apply to selective service not later than July 15.

TO SAVE FUEL NEXT WINTER...

HAVE YOUR PLUMBING AND HEATING CONTRACTOR
CHECK OVER YOUR ENTIRE HEATING AND HOT WATER SYSTEMS NOW

This is your most effective way to back Canada's fuel conservation program. No matter what type of heating system you have in your home, you may be surprised how much fuel you can save by following the advice of your plumbing and heating contractor and having him thoroughly clean all furnace surfaces and smoke pipes—cover heating unit, piping, and hot water heater and storage tank with insulating material—seal the air leaks which cause uncontrolled drafts in the system. He can tell you, too, whether your heating unit has large enough capacity to do the job expected of it.

BUT REMEMBER—your plumbing and heating contractor's services are in demand. Call him in now so that he will have ample time to make any necessary repairs and replacements during the summer months. (Replacement parts are still available, though delivery may be slow). At the same time, you can have him estimate how much fuel will be saved and order next winter's supply accordingly.

THIS BOOK WILL HELP YOU SAVE FUEL!

Detailed information on the correct care and operation of your domestic plumbing and heating systems is contained in the Crane Booklet "Plumbing and Heating Pointers". In it you will find many suggestions having a direct bearing on fuel conservation. If you have not already received your copy, phone, visit or write your nearest Crane branch—address below.

IF YOU ARE RESPONSIBLE for the operation of a large building—an apartment house, hotel, store, office building, school, hospital or quarters occupied by the armed forces—arrange now to have your maintenance men or plumbing and heating contractor look for and eliminate all causes of fuel waste. As a heavy user, you have an opportunity to effect bigger-than-average savings.

According To Plan

SO FAR SO GOOD IS PERHAPS THE best way to describe the beginnings of what ultimately will result in the capture of the vitally-important island of Sicily. As the struggle for this territory goes into its third day, the forces of the United Nations are in possession of a dozen strategic ports on the south and east coasts, prominent among which is the historic city of Syracuse with its 53,000 inhabitants. And if, as report has it as this is written, the great airport at Catania has fallen into Allied hands, progress toward the toe of the Italian boot has been more rapid than the most optimistic had dared to expect. Thirty miles to the north of this point lies the headquarters of the Sicilian defence system at Taormina, at the entrance to the Straits of Messina, with the mainland port of Reggio Calabria and Messina itself a similar distance farther to the northeast. The breadth of the separating waters here is two miles.

From the operations as they have so far unfolded, therefore, it would appear that it is the intention to occupy and dominate with all speed the whole of the eastern coast and cripple the enemy's line of supply from the mainland. Messina is the sole railroad of the island. Over the narrow strip of water separating it from the "toe of the boot" trains are ferried, and once this link is no longer safe for use, the enemy will be compelled to rely on the resources he already has built up against such an eventuality. That he has made ample preparations need not be questioned, even though the estimates of his fighting and armored strength may have been somewhat overdrawn, some figures putting his defensive force at anywhere between 350,000 and 500,000 men supplied with the latest German and Italian equipment.

What is most encouraging about the initial stages of this new campaign is the complete Allied domination of both the air and sea. Equally gratifying, too, is the fact that the landings were carried out without serious loss in either men or material. And reports from Rome that the Italian navy had gone into action are conspicuous for lack of confirmation from any other source. One would have supposed that Mussolini would seize the opportunity now presented of showing that the fleet which only a few years ago he displayed in Genoa's harbor for Adolf Hitler's benefit still had some fight left. It may yet come out; but it has been robbed of all chances of a surprise attack. Allied airmen are everywhere.

For the time being, then, the United Nations can console themselves with the fact that the first installment of the great adventure has gone according to plan. The essential bridgeheads are firmly established; the invasion of the "soft underbelly" of the Axis is well under way. But, as Mr. MacKenzie King told the House of Commons today, "the most critical period is to come." We know, however, the gallant lads from the land of the Maple Leaf will live up to the magnificent traditions of their fathers of a quarter of a century ago. Our hopes and prayers will go out to them.

Ross Munro Again

CONGRATULATIONS AND SALUTATIONS to Ross Munro, able and daring Canadian Press staff writer, whose first account of the Allied invasion of Sicily ranks with his journalistic masterpiece on his return from Dieppe last August. All Saturday and yesterday London's leading newspapers gave his work front-page display in every edition, while prominent American dailies paid similar tribute to his ability and daring. British and American broadcasting concerns likewise drew extensively on his first-hand accounts of the initial developments of this epic turn of events.

Time and time again, of course, war correspondents have proved to the reading public that their calling is every bit as hazardous as that of those who are doing the actual fighting. Mr. Munro and many others like him have lived up to the best newspaper traditions; and the Canadian Press, this country's premier news-gathering organization, has every right to be proud of this latest manifestation of its own staff man's skill and initiative.

Speeches And Events.

WHEN RT. HON. J. J. LLEWELIN WAS assigned to Washington as the representative of Sir Stafford Cripps' Ministry of Aircraft Production last November he was described by one of his admiring colleagues as a man who listens well, takes in the technicalities of any problem, knows what he is talking about, and makes up his mind while the unimaginative official hums and haws. We noted the remark at the time and said in these columns that he and his chief should make an excellent working team in the job given them.

But Mr. Llewelin's recently-delivered speech on Joint British-American citizenship seems to have brought down a good deal of criticism on his well-trained head. It appears, however, that the address distributed to the press in advance was not delivered in its original form at all; but it was too late to call it in, and the comments which followed obviously considerably embarrassed him. Nevertheless, there was nothing really morally or ethically wrong in his intention to suggest that Britons in the United States and Americans in Britain should be entitled to vote and hold public office without undergoing naturalization. Presumably he felt that the two peoples are so close in their goals and their methods that a good citizen of one would be a good citizen of the other. But the general feeling among Americans, and presumably among British, is that there is no good reason for such a gesture. And the mere proposal gave Anglophobes a text on which to base disparaging comparisons of British and American institutions—to cry that the British would like to steal a march on the Republic. One American comment has been drawn to our attention. It reads in part as follows:

"We do not agree with those who belittle British democracy. With all its faults, it is as good as American democracy, and no whit better. Nor do we agree with those who urge that this nation is so great that Englishmen would profit most from such exchange of citizenship. There is a drift away from isolationism. A few persons fear and a few others wishfully think that this portends weakening of nationalism. That does not follow. Families have learned to live side by side, exchanging courtesies, mutually helpful, tolerant of petty misunderstandings, without swapping views and children on a community basis. We can move each other's laws and water each other's flowers without agreeing that the Joneses, at will, shall have a valid vote in selecting the Smiths' wallpaper. Such give-and-take helpfulness and tolerance as neighbors normally exercise is all that nations require. Peaceably side by side. We do not need, nor do we want, either joint or common citizenship."

Regardless of what Mr. Llewelin intended to say or what he finally felt he ought not to say, his enthusiasm for a better understanding between the British and American peoples need cause no alarm, either in Britain or in the United States. It was Mr. Churchill himself who said, after Mr. MacKenzie King and Mr. Roosevelt had negotiated the Ogdensburg Agreement, that the affairs of the British and American people would somehow have to be "mixed up together" a good deal more as time wore on. It was that agreement, incidentally, which led to the establishment of the Joint International Defence Board on whose business, as the American chairman, New York's Mayor Fiorella LaGuardia is now in the west.

They Are All Alike

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH Africa has announced that enemy bombers on Saturday night sent a United Nations hospital ship to the bottom off the Sicilian coast. She was anchored three miles from land and was fully lighted, but happily some 400 wounded on board were successfully transferred to safety. This is a new reminder of the type of adversary our men are up against in this newly-opened theatre of war.

Before this campaign is many days old it is probable we shall hear the old refrain about the difference between the Italian and German people. Some radio commentators took a little time yesterday to explain, for example, how the Sicilians were never enamoured of Fascism, and that their pet aversion is a Nazi. But the point to remember—apart from the sinking of this hospital ship in which many Canadians may have been nursing wounds—is that Italy, after all, is the senior member of the Axis in totalitarianism's technique of government by tyranny.

Any "be-kind-to-the-Italians" cry that may go up should be treated with about as much consideration as enemy bombers treated that hospital ship last Saturday night. Mussolini's dupes will get as much justice as they are entitled to only by fulfilling the terms of the Casablanca dictum—"Unconditional Surrender!"

Eire And The Peace

OBSERVERS ARE CONVINCED THAT Eire, whether led by Mr. de Valera or anybody else, will ask for a place at the peace conference. The argument will be advanced that if neutrals and nonbelligerents are to be excluded, the settlement will be nothing but an interim governed by the conqueror's harsh terms. One of Eire's demands, to which she anticipates acquiescence, is the reintegration of the island, or "the return of the six counties in Northern Ireland which are now held illegitimately as British territories." It is also suggested that she may ask for formal recognition of her independence as a republic.

There would appear to be nothing fantastic about this prediction. Although the results of the recent elections may have been disappointing to the Dublin government, the issues of the contest, of course, were purely domestic in character—Mr. de Valera is still in the saddle and with the support of a Dail that thinks the war is something which does not concern Eire, he will probably remain adamant in his attitude toward Britain and the rest of the Empire. He still sticks to the idea that the Constitution of Ireland as drawn up by his republican party must be accepted by Ulster—and that Britain ought to assist in bringing about this condition by official pressure on Belfast.

No doubt Eire will be represented at the ultimate peace table; but Mr. de Valera could expect a much more sympathetic welcome to that gathering if he would persuade his part of Ireland that some tangible assistance toward the winning of the victory, which must precede any world settlement, would bring greater hopes of practical results for "republican" Ireland.

Ottawa Journal boasts with apparent justification that its city is becoming another "crossroads of the world." Stand on Parliament Hill long enough and sooner or later "everybody" turns up—kings and queens, presidents and prime ministers, great men and their famous wives, film stars, and hosts of those classed as "etc."

OLD IDEA, NEW MEANING

IT IS A FUNNY thing about ideas. I mean to say, a vague idea can float around the world for years without attracting much attention and never crystallize into the general knowledge of the people; then suddenly, for no good reason, some fellow comes along, takes the idea and gets it under control, and organizes it, sets it down in concrete form and it sweeps the world.

Mr. Walter Lippman, the best of America's journalists, has just done this in a remarkable book on American foreign policy. There is absolutely nothing new in this book. All the facts have been known to students for years. Yet, by organizing them, by placing them in sequence and presenting them in understandable form, Mr. Lippman seems to have proclaimed a brand new and blinding revelation which, fortunately, will penetrate the deep consciousness of the American people. This, perhaps, is the real job of all great teachers.

The obvious fact which Mr. Lippman presents is that the United States has lived and prospered and maintained its national existence since 1823 by an alliance with Britain, all unsuspected by the American people. In that year President Monroe proclaimed his famous Doctrine, by which the United States declared it would fight to preserve all parts of the western hemisphere from invasion.

But the Americans saw only half the Doctrine. The other half was in Britain. The Doctrine was only proclaimed after the American government had made sure that the British government would support it. And, of course, it could not have been maintained otherwise, for Britain controlled the Atlantic approaches to the western hemisphere through its navy. Only because Britain did control the Atlantic was it possible to enforce the Doctrine for some 75 years.

SOIL OF ISOLATIONISM

THE AMERICANS, says Mr. Lippman, grew so used to the safeguard of the British Navy that they eventually concluded they were safe from attack by reason of geography and by act of God. Isolationism was built on ignorance of the British sea power and of the real statesmanship of Monroe, who was anything but an isolationist.

Mr. Lippman's theory—perfectly obvious when you look at it, but no one does—is that American foreign policy which was satisfactory in the 19th century broke down when the domination of the British Navy was challenged by Germany early in the 20th. Once any power threatened to push its way out of Europe and control the Atlantic, the Monroe Doctrine became insufficient as a foreign policy and America became menaced.

The Americans did not realize this. They were brought into the last war, not because of German U-boat attacks, but simply because they could not afford to let an unfriendly power control the Atlantic. They had to support Britain which was their true safeguard. But even that war did not teach them the obvious facts of their position.

The question which Mr. Lippman asks himself, in deep agony of spirit, is whether his people have learned the lesson even yet. He is not sure of it. If they haven't there is not much hope for the world.

ONE LOOK AT the world's map will show them how right Mr. Lippman is. For the map shows their armies spread all over the Pacific and into China. It shows how through the years the United States continually extended the area of its commitments, committed itself to fight for the Philippines and finally invoked the war with Japan because it would not betray China; and yet all this time it refused to make any commitments in Europe, simply because it considered them unnecessary. It was depending on Britain without realizing its dependence. It was piling up its commitments without creating the power to make them good, and, when the test came, it was Britain which saved America on the Atlantic until it could save itself; it was China which saved the whole Pacific.

The lesson which Mr. Lippman draws out of all this is quite simple and obvious, too. He sees no satisfactory future for the world except in an alliance between the United States and the British Commonwealth and Russia. If any two of these three powers clash inevitably a third world war will result; whereas together they can maintain the peace with justice, since neither of them wants anyone else's territory and neither cares to disturb the peace for fear of the other two.

Out of this combination Mr. Lippman does not expect a new imperialism to grow but the contrary. He sees in it the only chance for a world order to develop, a real system of collective security based on power strong enough to enforce it.

Most Americans will not read Mr. Lippman's book but his idea, not because it is new but because it has been sharpened, will penetrate all public debate from now on. He has thus performed a notable public service.

Factors Behind Anglo-U.S. Action In North African French Politics

Fortier, left, U.S. war department liaison officer, and Maj.-Gen. John T. Lewis, commanding general of the Military District of Washington. Before visiting the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier and Washington's Tomb, Gen. Giraud held a press conference in which he said: "France will be at your side to liberate the Pacific from Japanese domination, even as she will remain with you to build a peace that will be lasting and just, but also realistic."

By ERNEST LINDLEY
WASHINGTON, D.C.

THE Washington visit of General Giraud makes it desirable to emphasize that neither the United States nor Great Britain, nor the two jointly, are undertaking to decide who shall govern France when it is liberated.

As Allied commander-in-chief, General Eisenhower was recently compelled to intervene in French political affairs to prevent General de Gaulle and his lieutenants from taking full control of the French military forces in Africa. Under their plan, General Giraud would have become a military subordinate of General de Gaulle.

OUTMANOEUVRED

The de Gaulleists, who are clever politicians, outmanoeuvred General Giraud, who is politically inexperienced. They obtained effective control of the newly formed French committee of national liberation.

Gen. Giraud's alternatives apparently were to become a military subordinate of de Gaulle or to resign. He chose to resign. He was stopped by the intervention of General Eisenhower.

It was made plain to the de Gaulleists that the British and Americans wished General Giraud to continue as French military commander in north Africa.

For this intervention, supporters of General de Gaulle accused the United States and Britain of frustrating the will of the people of France of maintaining a sort of puppet government.

BACKGROUND

De Gaulle's popular following unquestionably is far greater than Giraud's.

From the fall of France, he was the symbol and centre of Free French movement. Gradually, some of the dissenting French factions outside France were grouped around him. With British assistance, he was given a big publicity buildup.

Giraud had no such background. He was a prisoner of war. After his escape and return to France, he faded from view until he was splashed out of France to join the British and American commanders on the eve of the French African expedition.

Today de Gaulle is surrounded by politicians. Some of them represent groups that were important in prewar France, or which are important now in the organization of underground opposition.

The Allied High Command wanted General Giraud to continue as the French military commander. And that is the capacity in which he is visiting the United States. After France has been freed, the French people can choose their own political rulers.

FREE CHOICE

Both de Gaulle and Giraud are patriots dedicated to the liberation of France. Neither was elected by the French people. The American and British governments are agreed that when France has been liberated, the French people must be allowed to choose their own government. No one knows what that choice may be.

But de Gaulle and many around him seem to be quite as much, if not more, concerned with who is going to rule France after it is liberated. The American and British answer is that the French people are to decide that.

ADVANTAGE

Whoever commands the French army of liberation now forming in Africa may have an advantage, if he chooses to exercise it, in determining the next government of France.

He will have the advantage of prestige. And, if permitted, he might use the force at his disposal to set up a military government and to control the elections.

IMMEDIATE INTEREST

But the American and British governments intend to see to it that the French have a chance to choose their own government by democratic means.

Their immediate interest in French politics is to mobilize all groups for the liberation of France and to assure that the French armies forming in Africa are well trained and well fed. The main cost, in lives and money, of liberating France will be borne by American and British forces. These forces are brilliantly led.

General de Gaulle's judgment as to which French generals are fitted to train and lead in battle the French forces of Africa may conceivably be less good than General Eisenhower's and General Alexander's, especially when de Gaulle's judgment seems to be highly flavored by politics.

MILITARY COMMANDER

It is essential that the French forces be led by men who hold the confidence of the Allied high commanders and will collaborate with them.

The Allied High Command wanted General Giraud to continue as the French military commander. And that is the capacity in which he is visiting the United States. After France has been freed, the French people can choose their own political rulers.

When the full story of the recent manoeuvres in north Africa is told, it may reveal that one of the constant aims of the British and American governments was to see that this right was not foreclosed or abridged by the French politicians foregathered in Algiers.

Curry

Here is another dish that helps s-t-r-e-t-c-h meat as well as use leftovers

Here in Canada we have in the past regarded curry as rather an exotic dish—reminiscent of Anglo-Indian Colonels and dark-skinned native cooks. But in a time like this, curry comes into its own. In the first place, lima beans, peas, and other meat alternates—not to mention sea food and eggs—all take very kindly to the curry treatment. Then the most assorted and miscellaneous collection of meat leftovers can assume new glamour in a curry. Finally, curry offers the perfect treatment for the less tender and tasty cuts of meat.

1 pound lean meat, diced
4 to 6 good-sized onions
2½ cups stock or water
1 cup diced tart apple, or sliced carrot with juice of ½ lemon
2 tablespoons curry powder
Salt and pepper

Cook the onions, sprinkled with half the curry powder, in a little hot dripping or other cooking fat, until tender and delicately browned. Add the stock and apple or carrot, bring to boil, reduce heat, and simmer, covered, for two hours or until meat is tender. Add salt and pepper to taste. Pour off and measure liquid, and thicken smoothly with flour blended smoothly with cold liquid—allowing 1½ tablespoons flour for each cup of gravy. At the same time, add remaining curry (more or less, to taste). Connoisseurs consider curry best if cooled overnight and reheated . . . the "hot" flavour becomes mellow. Serve with fluffy hot rice, and chutney.

The basic recipe we give here can be varied to suit your family's taste. If they like "hot" foods you can double or treble the quantity of curry powder. The important thing is to allow yourself plenty of time and plenty of onions. Any vegetable leftovers can be added with benefit, both to the dish and your diet.

QUICK RECIPE
Into a big saucepan of rapidly boiling, salted water, simmer the dry rice so that the water never ceases to boil. When soft (20 minutes), strain in colander. Pour another kettle of boiling water through the rice. Drain thoroughly and serve in a pre-heated dish.

WARS AND RAINS
From Farmer's Advocate

Some say the war in Europe is causing all this rain. It did the same thing, it seems in 1916; but in 1917 and 1918 when the Allies were matching the enemy's artillery fire, the cannonading in Europe had no effect upon Canadian weather. One war agricultural production committee in Ontario was advised in all seriousness by an anxious farmer to get these airplanes out of the air. They, in his opinion, were causing the rain. An Indian prophet with some honor even in his own country declares that nature is sending rain in order to halt production and rest the land. The soil is becoming exhausted, he argues, with too much cropping and nothing put back; so nature is forced to take a hand. Still others declare that dry and wet periods go in cycles and this is the peak year for precipitation in this rainy area.

Summer School Sidelights

"Pasgus, Didsbury, Dilke, Neepawa, Ponoka, Linaria, Basha, Botha, Czar."

This is no magic incantation. It may sound like foreign gibberish, but on the contrary, it is literally "our own, our native land."

Summer school students registering up at the Victoria High School during the last two weeks include 54 teachers from points outside British Columbia. Hence the picturesque speech above—names of prairie towns listed as "home" by people who often have as euphonic names themselves. Take Appolonia Helt, for instance, who comes from Tramping Lake, Sask. Also on the roll-call are such names as Aarbo, Bieber, Blower, Gorrish, Klein, McLaffin, Scrimmeur, Slemke and Sondergaard—indicating the various countries from which Canadians originated.

What could be more typically descriptive of the prairies than these place names, each of which have sent their quota of teachers to Victoria for the summer school session—Elk Point, Red Deer, Veteran, Peace River, Settler, Coalville (Alberta), and Ox Bow, Belle Plain, Swift Current, Moosejaw and Broadview (Saskatchewan).

Martha Alberta Aarbo from Elk Point, Alta., who has just finished her second year as a rural school teacher, is working this summer for her primary specialist certificate. Included in the course she has planned for herself is integrative teaching in elementary schools, rural school problems, and school music.

ACCOMMODATION DIFFICULTIES

Finding accommodation was a difficult problem, Miss Aarbo admitted, but they stayed the first night at the "Y." She is now sharing quarters with Miss Josephine McGraw of Winnipeg, a music teacher who is taking advanced courses in her own field.

On her first visit to Victoria, Ruth Lydia Gray is specializing in physical education, and language and literature for primary grades. She has been teaching at Manville, Alta., for several years.

"I'm out here for a holiday as much as the courses," Miss Jessie Jackson said frankly, when interviewed, "and I'm certainly enjoying it so far."

Miss Jackson, who is from Peace River, Alta., is working for her primary specialist's certificate, and plans to teach in Edmonton in the fall.

"It's most interesting to get ideas from the teachers of other provinces," she added.

REUNION IN VICTORIA

Three Saskatchewan teachers who became inseparable friends at last year's B.C. Provincial Summer School of Education in Victoria are enjoying a happy reunion here at this year's summer school. They are Miss Margaret E. Berry of Belle Plain, Sask., Miss Beryl M. Hanbridge of Kerrobert, Sask., and Miss Gladys J. Rooke of Eston, Sask. "It's grand fun meeting again," they declared.

Miss Berry has been teaching in Prince Albert, Sask., the most northerly town of the province; Miss Rooke's school is at Elrose. These two met on the train at Swift Current and traveled together as far as Medicine Hat, where Miss Rooke changed to the Lethbridge train in order that she could make the rest of the journey to Victoria by airplane. Miss Hanbridge, the third member of the group, met Miss Berry in Vancouver, and they crossed over to Victoria together. These two teachers both have their B.A.'s and, having taken all the physical education work they can get at the Summer School in Saskatoon have come to Victoria because of various fresh aspects of the work they are able to get from the courses offered by Ernest Lee and Miss Betty Lynd Thompson.

"It's most strenuous; we're ravenously hungry all the time. The change of climate is grand, and we always enjoy the trip through the Rockies," the girls said in a burst of confidence. Miss Berry and Miss Hanbridge are staying at 2023 Belmont Avenue and Miss Rooke at 1820 Quamichan.

TRIES BREADCRUSTS FOR CABBAGE FUMES

LONDON (CP)—One of the hardest things about the war, so far as Dr. A. Berry, secretary of the Congregational Union, goes, is the smell of cooking cabbage from a British restaurant (government owned), near his office. Food authorities said this was due to the sulphur in cabbage and could be remedied if a small breadcrumb was laid lightly on the cooking cabbage.

Refused Leave

He declined it because he was afraid he might be away from England when troops started to move into a fighting zone.

The new trustee-elect has been a resident of Oak Bay for five years. He is manager for Neon Products Ltd. and the Ruddy Duker Co.

Chicks Roasted In Brooder Fire

Fifty chicks were reported roasted this morning when the brooder owned by M. Miller, at 3103 Washington Avenue, was destroyed by fire, according to a report from the fire department.

The alarm was turned in at 6:20.

On Saturday night, fire damaged roofs at 702 Princess and 802 Cook Street, but the blazes were prevented from spreading by the Victoria department. Both outbreaks occurred between 6 and 7.

Allies' Flare Bombs Plague Germans

STOCKHOLM (AP)—R.A.F. heavy bomber pilots are having so much success in locating targets by the light of "flare bombs" that German authorities have ordered air raid precaution forces to concentrate on extinguishing flares, the Berlin correspondent of the Stockholm Tidningen said in a dispatch.

First the Germans thought the flares were incendiaries. Now they have found there are 60 flares in each of these "bombs" which are dropped during night raids. The "bombs" explode 400 to 800 yards above the ground, scattering the flares, each of which illuminates an area of more than 100 yards in diameter with such brilliance that the glow can be seen by pilots through thick clouds, the Germans said.

4 Freedoms YOU CAN ENJOY Now!

The four freedoms implied in the Atlantic Charter framed by the Prime Minister of Great Britain and the President of the United States represent a way of life which it is hoped will be achieved in the future for all peoples.

There are "four freedoms" inherent in Imperial Life policies, too... and, best of all, they can be enjoyed by the policy owner today.

1. Freedom from worry about the welfare of your family should anything happen to you.
2. Freedom from dread of a penniless old age.
3. Freedom from periodic problems of re-investment of the funds designed to provide for life's "rainy days."
4. Freedom from fear of lost equity in case payments cannot be kept up.

Your first step to the enjoyment of these four freedoms is to have a talk with an Imperial Life representative. There is one near you.

Victoria Nursing Sisters To Tend Sicilian Force

CAPT. MARY CAVANAGH.

By LOUIS V. HUNTER

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA (CP Cable)—Canadian nursing sisters have followed their fighting brothers to the Mediterranean theatre, prepared to give those who are wounded in the Sicilian invasion campaign the care and attention of their own people.

The hospitals where these scores of girls in blue will tend the Canadian wounded will be based in north Africa, possibly under canvas. They will be working under conditions entirely different from those to which they were accustomed in England, where they—like the Canadian troops—had been waiting patiently for this day.

When the news spread round the ship on which the nurses traveled that Canadians were in action in Sicily with the British and American troops, the girls called it "exciting," "thrilling," "adventurous."

Lieut. Anne Halbuza, a petite blonde from Willow Brook, Sask., voiced the sentiments of the sisters.

"We have been looking forward to this even though we didn't know where we were going," she said. "The Mediterranean is something I have always wanted to see. It's lovely and blue as I had expected."

The nursing sisters made the trip in the same convoy with another hospital unit, but they did not know they were together until day or so before arrival here, when the ships passed each other.

Sisters and doctors aboard the ship carrying a group of war correspondents amused themselves by sun-bathing, playing cards on deck and studying atlases.

LIEUT. G. HICHENS-SMITH

The sisters included Lieuts. F. Stoughton, Fort William; Eleanor Acheson, Winnipeg; Anne Halbuza, Willow Brook, Sask.; Doris Horton, Saskatoon; Madge McKillop, Moose Jaw, Sask.; Lillian McNeen, Goven, Sask.; K. A. Stevens, Swift Current, Sask.; Anne Christie, Vauxhall, Alta.; Edith Read, Medicine Hat, Alta.; Catherine Aitken, Wells, B.C.; Mary Cavanagh and Gwen Hichens-Smith, Victoria; E. M. Keyes, Burnet, B.C., and B. C. Miller, Vancouver.

(Capt. Mary Cavanagh is well known in Victoria, having been matron of the Esquimalt Military Hospital prior to her transfer east. Lieut. Gwendolyn Hichens-Smith is the daughter of Lt. Cdr. Walter Hichens-Smith, now on naval duty at an eastern port, and Mrs. Hichens-Smith of Cambridge Street. She joined the R.C.A.M.C. in January, 1941, and was stationed at Gordon Head Military Camp, going overseas in October of last year.)

The demonstration will launch a "Canning for Victory" campaign, sponsored by local women's groups and arranged by a committee of home economics graduates, headed by Mrs. A. B. Young and Mrs. Ed. Mallek. If sufficient interest is shown tomorrow, steps will be taken to arrange further demonstrations in Greater Victoria.

In these days of substitutes and synthetics it is refreshing to see these superb Harris Tweeds, hand woven by the crofters of the Western Hebrides just as they have always been. Pure Scotch Wool and beautifully tailored and satin lined. The only difference in recent years is that the colors and weaves are more varied and more beautiful than ever. The regular price of $39.75 has not been raised by a single dime—the weaving or wool has not deteriorated by a single jot or tittle.

HUNKIN—GUY

Rose carnations and blue scabious were arranged at the home of the bride's parents Saturday evening, when Rev. J. C. Jackson united in marriage Hilda, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Guy, and Mr. Stanley Hunkin, Oakland, Calif., second son of the late Mr. and Mrs. B. Hunkin, Cornwall, England. Mrs. J. W. Loudon played the wedding marches, and the solo, "Through the Years," was sung by Mrs. Bert Henry, accompanied by Mrs. L. A. Young.

An afternoon frock of heavenly blue crepe, rose hat with matching accessories and a corsage bouquet of roses was worn by the bride, who was given in marriage by her father. The couple were unattended.

At the reception which followed, Mrs. Guy welcomed the guests, wearing black sheer, assisted by the groom's sister-in-law, Mrs. Arthur Hunkin, gowned in air force blue. A three-tier wedding cake centred the supper table, prettily decorated with rose and blue flowers.

Following a honeymoon in northern California, Mr. and Mrs. Hunkin will reside at 509 Valle Vista Avenue, Oakland, Cal. For traveling, the bride wore a rose ensemble, with blue tweed topcoat.

HARPER—WAIT

Thelma Jean, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Wait, 2934 Dean Street, became the bride at 7.30 Saturday evening in St. Matthias' Church, of Edward Roby Harper, R.C.N., son of Mr. E. E. Harper, Island Highway, and the late Mrs. Harper. Rev. E. G. Burgess-Brown performed the ceremony, and the church organist was in attendance. The choir sang "O Perfect Love" and "O Father, All Transcending," during the signing of the register.

A gown of white satin, having long pointed sleeves, was worn by the bride, who was given away by her father. A net halo caught her floor-length embroidered veil, and she carried a bouquet of red roses and swainsons. Miss Helene Wait was her sister's bridesmaid, frocked in pale pink chiffon, with matching halo and chapel veil, and carrying pink carnations and delphiniums. Mr. Danny Sunstrum, R.C.N.V.R. was best man.

Cream and pink roses, and delphiniums were used in the decoration of the church, and adjoining hall, where the reception was held. Mrs. Wait received the guests, and the three-tier wedding cake centred a prettily arranged supper table.

For traveling, the bride wore a two-piece frock of yellow crepe, matching hat, brown topcoat, and an orchid. Mr. and Mrs. Harper will reside in Victoria after their return from a honeymoon up-island.

REYNOLDS—WOODWARD

Eleanor Margaret, third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfrid Woodward, 3445 Cobb Lane, became the bride, Saturday evening, at 8.15, in Oaklands Gospel Hall, of Mr. Clarence George Reynolds, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Reynolds, 1265 Montrose Avenue. Mr. H. L. Hopkins performed the ceremony, and Miss Eileen Wilkinson played the wedding music. Miss Rachel Woodward, sister of the bride, sang "A Wedding Prayer" during the signing of the register.

Wearing a floor-length gown of white sheer, with embroidered yoke and bishop sleeves, the bride was given away by her father. She wore her mother's wedding veil of Brussels net, caught with a coronet of orange blossom, and carried a bouquet of Johanna Hill roses and white carnations. Miss Allison Woodward, sister of the bride, and Miss Thelma Reynolds, sister of the groom, were bridesmaids, frocked in blue and rose taffeta respectively. They wore matching chapel veils, wreathed with fresh flowers, and carried the new flower ball bouquets of pink and blue blooms. Cpl. Nelson Hindle, R.C.A.F., was best man, and Messrs. Frank and Jack Woodward, cousins of the bride, ushered.

Delphiniums, lilies and shasta daisies were arranged in the Gospel Hall, and also at the home of the bride's parents, where the reception was held. Mrs. Woodward received the guests, wearing a frock of hyacinth blue, with blue and gold hat, assisted by Mrs. Reynolds, in navy blue crepe with a blue and white hat. A three-tier cake, decorated by Mrs. W. Sims, centred the bride's table, flanked by vases of roses and white tapers in silver candleholders, which were a family heirloom, loaned by the bride's grandmother, Mrs. H. A. Woodward.

A mustard wool suit, with matching hat, brown accessories, and a corsage bouquet of Tallman roses, was worn by the bride for a honeymoon to Vancouver. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds will make their home at 2430 Richmond Road.

FREY—DARBY

Standard baskets of madonna lilies formed the background in St. John's Church Saturday evening for the wedding of Bertha Lena, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Darby of Raymond, Sask., and Victoria, and Flt. Sgt. John Henry Frey, R.C.A.F., youngest son of Mr. J. Frey, Pincher Creek, Alta., and the bridesmaid, Miss Lorna Cross, cousin of the bride, wore pale pink, with a lace bodice and taffeta skirt. Both wore matching Mary Stuart headdresses, with chapel veils, and carried arm bouquets of snapdragons, carnations and sweet peas. Flt. Sgt. Gallinger, R.C.A.F., supported the groom, and acting as ushers were WO2 James Stewart, Flt. Sgt. Ernest Walcott, R.C.A.F., CPO. Toby Larsen, R.C.N.R., and WO2 Jack Roberts.

A reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Parmler, Leighton Road, where Mrs. Parmler was assisted in receiving the guests by Mrs. Martha Cross, aunt of the bride. Pink and white carnations and white tapers were arranged on the supper table, centred with a three-tier wedding cake, made and presented by Mrs. Cross. Assisting in serving were Mesdames R. Nyblett, H. Mellish, E. Lee-Warner, E. Williams, L. Bradley and the Misses Marian Heritage and Dolly McAlpine.

Going away, the bride wore a tan frock, matching hat and accessories, pale blue spun-wool coat, and corsage of gardenias and yellow rosebuds. Flt. Sgt. and Mrs. Frey will reside at 1738 Leighton Road after a honeymoon up-island.

SOLDIER OF THE SOIL

THIS year the Canadian Farmer urgently needs help. He needs your help to produce the food so necessary for victory. Many thousands of farm workers are serving in the Forces, so that the farmer—the Soldier of the Soil—is short-handed, but short-handed as he is, he is called upon to produce more food than ever before. Food is one of the most powerful weapons of war. Grains, eggs, bacon, beef, fruit, vegetables—FOOD to feed our armies, our allies and our people we must have.

WHAT CAN YOU DO?

You may be a school teacher, student, business or professional man, in office or store clerk—no matter what you are, if you have a few hours, days, weeks, or months of free time this summer, you can do your country and the farmer a great and patriotic service by helping out on the farm. You may be inexperienced, but you still can help. You will find work on the farm healthy and congenial. It will give you the satisfaction of feeling that you have brought Victory nearer.

What you should do NOW!

Consult any special local committee or office established to deal with farm labour placements in your city or town; or Write the Director of the Dominion-Provincial Farm Labour Program at the capital of your province; or Get in touch with your nearest Employment and Selective Service Office.

3 Duncan Teachers Tender Resignations

DUNCAN—Three resignations were received and accepted by the Duncan Consolidated School Board, Friday evening, Miss E. Stoddard and Miss Helen M. Brown from the elementary school, and R. C. Smith, industrial arts at the Duncan High School. Two married teachers asked that their present temporary appointments be made permanent, and this was granted. The supplies and repairs committee reported on repairs which had been done, and the tender of C. A. Green for the painting of the York Road School was accepted.

Two appointments were made, Miss Georgina Watchorn, Nanaimo, and Miss Lilian Murchie, Duncan, to the elementary school.

The Y.M.C.A. Red Triangle Concert Party of Victoria gave a most enjoyable entertainment in the United Church Hall, Duncan, which was packed to the doors on Friday evening. The objective of $90 for a depth charge was easily reached, with more added.

The enthusiastic reception of all numbers showed the appreciation of the audience, and the party were most heartily thanked for their kindness in coming, and so ably helping the Duncan branch of the "Stamp Out the U-Boat Campaign."

W. M. Neal, vice-president of the Canadian Pacific Railway and a party of prominent Canadian businessmen arrived in Victoria this afternoon from Vancouver and went to the Empress Hotel for the week-end. They recently toured northern sections of Canada.

In Canton, China, every home celebrates New Year with flowers.

Realistic Subs Help Stamp Drive

Two sleek, grey realistic-looking submarines were seen travelling up-island last week over the Malahat highway.

The subs were made of papier mache and lathes by employees of Yarrow's Limited in their spare time as a contribution to the "Stamp Out the U-Boat" nation-wide campaign now under way to sell $1,350,000 worth of war savings stamps, with which to buy 15,000 depth charges for Canada's fighting ships.

The lifelike undersea craft were used as booths to sell the stamps and were placed in public places in Ladysmith, then taken to Nanaimo, and one was placed permanently in Alberni.

A third submarine is now on display in Victoria at Douglas and View Streets. Citizens of Vancouver Island will have an opportunity to see these replicas of actual submarines until July 31 when the campaign will end.

Colwood

At the annual ratemakers' meeting of the Colwood School District, held Saturday evening, in Colwood School, H. G. Ridley was re-elected school trustee for a three-year term. R. W. Robinson was appointed auditor, for one year.

All estimates for the ensuing year were approved and all reports found satisfactory.

Happy Valley

The annual ratemakers' meeting of the Happy Valley School District has been postponed to July 16 at 7.30.

Major Defence Job Features Building

A $28,000 National Defence Department project featured city building during the week, with 23 permits issued for construction valued at $39,159.

In addition to the major undertaking, one permit was issued for a single family home, costing $3,200. It will be built on Jackson Street, for Louis Schmelz.

Another was granted for conversion of 1385 Rockland, for H. E. Tomlin. The residence will be changed into a six-suite apartment. Two other minor conversions, renovation of Terry's Ltd. and repairs and improvements, were also undertaken during the week.

Summer School Faces Room-Board Problem

For the convenience of 30 students of the Provincial Summer School of Education who were unable to find accommodation which provided room and board, the cafeteria of the Summer School this year is operating seven-days a week.

In charge of Miss Muriel Johnson, a graduate dietitian, with a staff of seven or eight girls from Victoria High School household science classes as assistants, the cafeteria is doing an efficient job this summer, serving luncheons daily to about 200 students, in addition to breakfasts and teas to a large number. Ration difficulties and meatless Tuesday notwithstanding, students seem highly satisfied. Reorganization of the system of serving has made for greater speed in filling the trays at the noon rush hour. Tables both in the main cafeteria and the faculty dining-room are always attractively decked with fresh flowers.

Coping with the problem of housing about 300 out-of-town teachers here for the Summer School, Director C. B. Conway hit on the expedient of a house-to-house canvass by a number of High School students, who carried with them forms prepared for filling in with details concerning the nature of accommodation available, rates charged, etc. By this means a list of more than 50 rooms was made ready before students arrived.

For teachers who are still arriving from remote parts of British Columbia and the northern prairie provinces news of available rooms is proving useful. Householders are showing less reluctance to open their homes to students who will be here for five or six weeks at the most, than they have shown in responding to the appeal of the Housing Registry.

By PETE SALLAWAY

VICTORIA footballers wound up by sending a revamped line-up over to Vancouver for Saturday's wind-up of the intercity series that started away back last winter. Just why it took until well on in July to complete the competition we will never be able to explain. As recorded in this column some time ago, the soccer moguls might just as well draw up a schedule to cover the entire 12 months and let it go at that. Why bother to stop playing for two months or so?

We were greatly interested to note that a goodly number of the players selected on the original line-up didn't make the jump. Although no official word was forthcoming we have it on good authority a number of the boys asked for remuneration for time lost at work. As a matter of fact, our informant stated these players sent a signed letter to Pat Mulcahy, local soccer commissioner, asking for such consideration along with the stipulation they were not interested in going to the mainland unless their conditions were met. No doubt they met with a refusal and that was the reason for their not traveling with the club, and not that they were unable to get away from work.

When informed by the sports department that his son Lynn was to be inducted into the United States Army, Lester Patrick expressed only mild surprise. "We knew that Lynn was due for a call any time after July 1, but of course that might have meant next December," said Lester.

Loss of Lynn will be a severe blow to the New York Rangers in next year's National Hockey League campaign. Last season the left-winger carried a big share of the team's offense, being one of the few regulars left on the roster. Despite the fact the Rangers had their poorest season from a competitive point of view, Lynn finished well up in the scoring, evidence of his ability to get goals and assists under the toughest kind of conditions. And on top of it all the Rangers ran into a lot of injuries during the long campaign. The games were mighty few when they took the ice with a complete roster.

Lynn's chances of ever donning the blades again for major hockey competition are slim. Couple of years ago we chatted with the big fellow about his hockey future and he expressed the opinion then he figured he was good for another four years in the Big Time. It will be just a question of how long he is kept away from the sport. If the Allied nations complete their job on the Axis in quick order Patrick may play some more hockey, otherwise he will have finished his career after nine seasons in the world's greatest ice circuit.

Victoria Swamps Orchards

Four Homers Seen

Powerhouse Victoria All-Stars picked up a lot of first class batting practice Saturday as they shellacked the visiting Port Orchard nine, 26 to 4 and 14 to 5, in two exhibition ball games. Taking the field with a pitifully weak team the Washington club turned in the poorest performance of any club to show here from south of the border.

Both games attracted good crowds and the fans had to be satisfied with watching the local players pound the ball to all corners of the lot.

In the afternoon Victoria collected a total of 21 hits off three Port Orchard pitchers, Dailey, Burrell and Boyd, while in the evening they tabbed two pitchers, Moran and Boyd, for 12 safeties.

Doug Feden, big first sacker of the Victoria club, led the batting offensive in the afternoon with two towering home runs over the centre field wall. The first one came with the sacks loaded. Feden also collected a triple and a single. Catcher Julian Sawchuk contributed to the massacre with a home run inside the park, and a double, while Outfielder Bob Walker pounded out two doubles and a pair of singles.

In the evening tilt shortstop Ian Low pulled his home run trick again with a terrific drive over the centre field fence, and punched out a pair of line singles in addition. Outfielder Reg Patterson and pitcher Tommy Musgrave came up with doubles.

Jimmy Dumeah handled the pitching for Victoria in the afternoon. Despite the fact he took things easy, using a change of pace and a deadly knuckle ball, the navy flier gave up only six hits, while he struck out nine. Musgrave worked for six innings in the evening and after allowing the visitors three hits for two runs in the first inning, settled down to give up two more hits and one run in five innings. Jerry Whitney took over in the sixth and was nipped for two hits and two runs in four frames.

Victoria All-Star Soccer Team Drops Game On Mainland

VANCOUVER (CP)—Coast League All-Stars defeated Victoria in a soccer match here Saturday by a score of 5 to 2.

The Mainlanders were too strong for the Islanders, whose team was weakened considerably because four V.M.D. players, and Les Boulter and William Cockcroft of the R.A.F. were unable to turn out.

Victoria played against a strong wind in the first half, and two clever passes by Cox gave Morgan a clear run through, but his centres were cleared by Newbold. Five minutes after the start Harvey hit the ball forward and Whittaker headed the first goal. Then Carmichael made a great save when Whittaker shot with force from close range, but in another five minutes Milsted's perfect centre left Spencer with an open goal and he drove the ball home.

SECOND HALF
Five minutes after the restart Spencer found himself through with the ball when Chapman missed a bouncing kick, and Jimmy added the third counter with a simple shot which eluded Carmichael.

In another three minutes' play Victoria lost a fourth goal, although it should not have been allowed. Jankovitch distinctly handled, and the linesman waved his flag, but the referee let play proceed and the winger drove the ball into the net. Matheson put on a fifth with a brilliant 25-yard drive in the next minute.

Victoria started to play better, and Morgan put over a lovely centre which Ross headed outside the post when it seemed impossible to miss scoring. After 30 minutes, however, Ross rushed a centre from Morgan past Newbold, and should have got another right afterwards, but shot the ball against the goal as he lay on the ground.

A minute from time Newbold tipped a header from Chapman over the bar, and when Ross headed Potter's corner kick across the goal-mouth Morgan nodded it through.

The R.C.A.F., starting at 6.30, Navy is deadlocked with the Army for second position, while the Flyers occupy fourth position.

Short scores follow:
First game—R. H. E.
Port Orchard—4 6 8
Victoria—26 21 2
Batteries: Dailey, Burrell, Boyd and Shattuck; Dumeah and Sawchuk.
Second game—R. H. E.
Port Orchard—5 7 6
Victoria—14 12 5
Batteries: Moran, Boyd and Shattuck; Musgrave, Whitney and Harney.

Haegg Wins Again

Sets Two-Mile Mark

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Gunder Haegg, the swift Swede, who thinks he is passing his peak at the age of 24, may not break, or tie, his unofficial world record of 8.47.8 seconds for two miles during his United States tour, but he has achieved a new official mark, 8.35.9, registered here Saturday, without anyone to extend him.

The old world mark of 8.36 was set in 1938 in Budapest by Miklos Szabo of Hungary.

The chances are that Gunder may not run the two-mile in his remaining appearances. G. I. D. Dodds, the Boston divinity student, who was his main opposition here, wants to try his luck at a shorter distance, after being left 120 yards in the rear.

IDEAL RUNNER
Regardless, the easy-striding Haegg impressed competent critics as the perfect distance runner. Boyd Comstock, former Los Angeles Athletic Club coach, later national tutor of athletics in Italy, says Gunder is the ideal runner.

"He's better than Paavo Nurmi," says Comstock. "Nurmi carried himself too erect. His chest was out too far when he ran, and he worked too much from the hips. Haegg has ideal co-ordination of knee and hip action."

Haegg might have beat his best time had Dodds been able to keep the pace he set for three laps. The race was too far for him, and he was through the fourth time around, with Haegg left to carve out his own pace.

Haegg ran effortlessly throughout, and when he was through he was breathing easily. He sat down calmly and removed his shoes as unconcerned as though he had taken only a warm-up.

In the men's medal competition at the Gorge Vale Golf Club Sunday, E. Hume was the winner with a net score of 73. R. Dunlop, H. Ashton and L. DeCosta finished in a tie for second, with scores of 74.

Dream Ball Game Tomorrow

Sell-Out Attendance

(Tomorrow night's All-Star baseball game between the National and American Leagues will be broadcast over station KIRO, starting at 5 p.m. Victoria time.)

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A crystal ball has never been found in a major league meeting, but the moguls must have had at least a swami or a ouija board handy when they decided, six months ago, to put the all-star game in Philadelphia this year.

It was at their winter pow-wow that the club owners sent the interleague lawn party to this city of brotherly love, although technically the game wasn't slated for the east this year. It comes off tomorrow in Shibe Park, and it is probably the luckiest decision the moguls have made since pop bottles were barred for throwing at umpires.

For when the Nationals and the Americans start shooting at 9 a.m. tonight, it looks as if every one of the 32,480 seats in Connie Mack's castle on Lehigh Avenue will be full of customers, and the S.R.O. sign will be out. All but 2,000 of the duets were gone

Y.M.C.A. Tracksters Victors Over Navy

Track and field stars of the Y.M.C.A. scored their first victory over Navy performers Saturday afternoon in a meet on the High School grounds. The blue-jackets missed the services of competing coach Art Brookman, who has been drafted to another area.

Bill Dale, Ronny Dalziel and Jack Rowe provided victories for the "Y" in five of the eight events.

By a mere two percentage points Ian (Ace) Lowe, Victoria Machinery Depot shortstop, is leading the batting averages in the senior ball league. Lowe has a mark of .470, while Nick Metz, red-headed shortstop of the Army Club, is runner-up with .468.

Lowe has been at bat 66 times, pined out 31 hits and scored 20 runs, while Metz has faced the pitchers 47 times, gained 22 safeties and crossed the plate 13 times. Third place goes to Nerts Parent, R.C.A.F. shortstop, and early-season leader, with an average of .446. Gile Bruce, Navy, is fourth with .414, while Clint Hodges, shortstop of the last-place Eagles, is fifth with an even .400.

Chuck Restell, V.M.D., and Parent lead the league in stolen bases, each having pilfered 13.

Averages include games up to July 5.

R.A.F., Navy Score Cricket Victories

Saturday afternoon's cricket matches saw the R.A.F. and Navy mark up victories. Flyers turned back the Albions by 41 runs while the sailors beat the Five C's 91 to 67.

After a weak start the R.A.F. rallied to take the Albions, scoring 61 runs on the seventh wicket. The Five C's show little strength at the wicket against the Navy, the partnership of Griffin and Harper being the only stand. Edge paced the sailors with a smart 32, including two sixes.

Saturday's matches will see the Navy play the R.A.F. at Macdonald Park and the C's oppose the Albions at Beacon Hill.

McCarthy Protests Sewell's Statement

CHICAGO (AP)—Manager Joe McCarthy of New York Yankees lodged a protest Saturday with Will Harridge, president of the American League, against a statement reported to have been made Friday by Luke Sewell, manager of St. Louis Browns, that the Yankees "get all the breaks from the umpires."

Harridge said he would demand an explanation from Sewell.

More Tennis Balls

MONTREAL (CP)—The Canadian Lawn Tennis Association has "reasonable grounds for believing that the supply of tennis balls will be substantially increased during this month," it was announced Saturday following annual meeting of the Association.

R. N. Watt of Montreal was re-elected president, with Dr. E. W. Boak of Victoria re-elected western vice-president.

Louis Makes World Tour of Army Camps

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sgt. Joe Louis, world heavyweight champion, will make a round the world tour of army posts, giving boxing exhibitions and lessons in physical conditioning.

Details of the tour, including the date for its start and the exact itinerary, remain to be worked out.

Boxla Games Tonight

Box lacrosse teams will see action tonight at Stevenson Memorial Park when the R.C.A.F. Flyers and Jokers clash in the feature game, starting at 7. In a preliminary at 6, the Bays and Oaklands midget clubs will battle.

Jokers gave the Cougars a good game their last out, and hope to provide the crack air force club with stiff competition.

Additional Flareups Forecast

Leo "Lippy" Durocher apparently is on the way out as manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers as the aftermath of the revolt against his leadership Saturday.

While on-the-surface peace reigned today in this latest Ebbets Field episode, involving the three-day suspension of star pitcher Bobo Newsom for what Durocher termed "insubordination," the sentiment of the players was reliably reported to be that they are "sick of being second guessed," and that future flareups can be expected unless Durocher succeeds in restoring harmony. New York baseball writers agreed that "there are strong reasons to believe Leo will not last the season as manager."

These developments overshadowed Sunday's furious action on the diamond that saw St. Louis Cardinals and New York Yankees sweep double-headers from Boston Braves and Chicago White Sox to widen their leads to 5½ games and 4½ games, respectively.

The Cardinals chalked up their sixth in a row and their 13th triumph in 15 starts as Harry Krumpholtz blanked the Braves 3 to 0 in the first game, and Whitey Kurowski doubled with the bases full in the 11th inning for a 9 to 6 conquest in the nightcap.

Yankees likewise wound up their western invasion in fine style by making it four straight over the White Sox and their ninth win in 11 starts.

Spud Chandler won his 10th game with a six-hit 9 to 0 shutout in the opener. In the nightcap the Yanks won 8 to 6.

FIRST DEFEAT

Milo Candini suffered his first defeat in eight starts for Washington when Cleveland knocked him out in the first inning, and went on to a 5 to 1 victory. Senators, however, gained a split for the day by winning the second game 6 to 4 in 10 innings.

Detroit and the Philadelphia Athletics also split a twin bill. Rookie Don Black of the A's beat the Tigers 4 to 3 in the opener. Veteran Tommy Bridges twirled a brilliant three-hit shutout to gain a 9 to 0 triumph for the Tigers in the nightcap.

Behind the seven-hit pitching of Bucky Walters and Ray Starr, Cincinnati beat the slumping Phillies twice, 7 to 4 and 14 to 2.

St. Louis Browns took both ends of their bargain bill from Boston Red Sox 8 to 7 and 4 to 2. Chicago Cubs and New York Giants divided their doubleheader.

Ernie Lombardi's 10th inning homer won the first for the seventh inning homer with one on gave the Cubs the second by the same score.

Aided by Bob Elliott's sixth inning triple that scored the tying and winning run Max Butcher, Pittsburgh right hander, beat Brooklyn 3 to 2. Dodgers came back to win the nightcap 5 to 4.

Restrictions and simplifications of incandescent lighting fixtures under government regulations are expected to save from 2,500 to 3,000 tons of metal this year.

Thumps Up Scores Impressive Win

NEW YORK (AP)—Movie man Louis B. Mayer's Thumbs Up, Saturday won the Butler Handicap, feature of the transplanted Empire City meeting at Jamaica, before a crowd of 28,291.

Running the mile and three-sixteenths in 1:56 1/5, the four-year-old son of Blenheim II posted a new track record as he led William Woodward's Apache to the wire by four lengths.

Lou Tufano's favored Market Wise was third, and another five lengths farther back. Last year's Kentucky Derby winner, Shut Out, showed nothing and finished eighth in the field of nine.

Piloted by Otto Grohs and carrying 116 pounds, compared to the 127 top weight for Market Wise, Thumps Up picked up $23,300 for his victory and returned $22, $9 and $4.40 across the board.

Victoria's Reserve Army Goes Into Camp

Members of the band. Gathered around the tuba are some members of the band, several of them real veterans. Front row, left to right: J. Watson, Ray Griffiths and Bob Clarke; back row: Ed. Rawley, Bill Davidson, Frank Hall and Frank Drysdale.

After their first night under canvas members of the Victoria units of the Reserve Army were called from their springless mattresses by buglers early this morning and attended strictly to the details of their sergeant-majors.

The troops went into camp at Heal's Sunday morning. Before day was done they had secured all equipment, set up their tents and tucked a couple of army meals under their belts.

Today the troops began their serious training. Lt. Col. Brooke and his staff have drafted an excellent training schedule to cover two weeks.

Except for cooks, all men at the camp and members of the staff from the reserve units, the camp will finish July 25, with a brief relaxation July 18, when the men will be "at home" between 3 and 5 p.m. to their families and friends.

The reserve soldiers represent the 3rd (Res.) Battalion, Canadian Scottish; 114th Infantry (Res.) Coy., Veterans' Guard of Canada; No. 1 (Res.) Fortress Workshop, R.C.O.C., and 13th (Res.) Field Ambulance, R.C.A.M.C. The camp staff includes Major A. B. Nash, Capt. D. Fyvie, Lieut. L. Michelin, Sgt.-Maj. Cleator and R.Q.M.S. Nuttall.

Canadian Newsreel Shows Here July 22

Beginning Thursday, July 22, Victoria theatregoers will see a weekly release of newsreels concerning the activities of Canadians in the armed services abroad.

Through negotiations completed by Oscar Hanson, president of Pioneer Films Ltd., Canadians will see British newsreels, expressly edited for Canadians, on the same day they are released in Great Britain. This has been made possible by air-mail, which will carry to Canada the master negative of the Associated British Press.

The films will feature Canada's far-flung activities overseas in general, news of Canada's sons and daughters in uniform on the various fronts of the war, and spot news of current events in Britain.

The plan is to present a truly Canadian up-to-the-minute review of day-to-day activities without the interpolation of material of interest to the United States alone, which has been current in newsreels currently showing in Victoria theatres.

The Canadian newsreel master negative will be flown from Great Britain to Montreal by R.C.A.F. plane once a week. Prints will be made in Montreal by the Associ-

THE MILDEST CIGARETTE YOU CAN SMOKE

BECAUSE THEY'RE MADE FROM COOLER-BURNING TOBACCOS

Many smokers confuse taste with strength. Actually the pleasant taste you find in a Buckingham comes from a blend of riper, more mature tobaccos and this satisfying taste can readily be distinguished from strength, as by proven test Buckingham is the mildest cigarette you can smoke.

Also important is the fact that the riper Virginia, Burley and Turkish leaves used in Buckingham are scientifically blended to produce a cooler-burning cigarette—a cigarette that is cooler on the throat.

Smoke a blended Buckingham and enjoy the taste that satisfies, a mildness that is truly Throat Easy.

Light Crops Noted

Sour cherries, pears, plums and prunes on Vancouver Island have been unusually light, according to the B.C. Agriculture Department's weekly report.

Strawberries are just about over, and the crop has been light, says the report. Prices have ranged high. The first of the raspberries are on the market. Loganberries should be starting about the end of this week. Black and red currants were harvested during last week.

The report says vegetables are in good supply. Seed crops are progressing favorably, but weeds have been a problem.

On the lower mainland potatoes are making good growth and a favorable production is anticipated, early varieties being available in quantity.

Neal Sees Great Northwest Tourist Circuit

The day when Vancouver Island will be featured in a great tourist circuit that will carry travelers by rail, steamer and plane to the Far North was visualized in Victoria today by Wm. M. Neal, vice-president of Canadian Pacific Railway Company.

With a party of prominent eastern Canadian businessmen, Mr. Neal is at the Empress Hotel after a 7,500-mile flight that took his party to the Arctic Circle, including visits to Akilavik and Nome.

"The historic and romantic attractions of this great area—and it includes Vancouver Island—are intriguing," Mr. Neal said. "Asked what plans his company had for development of its B.C. Coast Steamship Service its hotels and other facilities on the island, after the war, Mr. Neal replied: 'This is a very important part of our service—we certainly plan on maintaining all features. We're making a preliminary survey now, but it's too early yet to get any exact details.'"

WORSE IN THE EAST
Travel facilities on this coast may be crowded, Mr. Neal said, but the situation here is nothing as severe as in the east, in the more densely populated centres, Mr. Neal said.

The vice-president, approachable and genial, who 40 years ago was a C.P.R. stenographer, paid tribute to the general public for its understanding and co-operation in these trying days, when all trains and steamers are crowded.

"There is no possibility of increasing passenger equipment," Mr. Neal said. "We must give priority to personnel of His Majesty's forces, first on duty and then on furlough. We are most anxious to co-operate with the forces and see that accommodation is provided men and women on furlough. But we're trying to take care of everyone."

and so far we've met with a great measure of success. Naturally, all the niceties of peacetime travel cannot be observed, but the people in general are showing a very helpful attitude."

The C.P.R. has lost 17,000 men and women, 24 per cent of the normal staff, to the armed services.

"We are employing women even in roundhouses, and they are proving very satisfactory," Mr. Neal said. "Given work, within their physical capacity, they are as efficient as men, and we have found that they can hold some executive positions capably."

Mr. Neal is finding very few minutes to relax during his visit to Victoria. He even had a breakfast appointment today. He expressed his regret at being unable to visit Fairbridge Farm School at Cowichan, but said he would telephone the principal, Col. H. T. Logan.

He plans to see Premier John Hart, Mayor McGavin and "my dear old friend" Alderman Worthington.

He asked for Mrs. Hugh MacKenzie and Mrs. T. M. Knox and then told Hon. F. Philippe Brail, government leader of the Quebec Upper House, that Vancouver Island has a unique society for the preservation and conservation of wild flowers and that Mr. MacKenzie and Mrs. Knox are interested in it.

Mr. Neal and his party expect to leave tomorrow for the mainland, en route to Montreal after one of the longest trips a C.P.R. executive has ever made.

At Royal Roads, Wednesday

Festivities Arranged For Naval Graduation

First graduation at the Royal Canadian Naval College at Royal Roads will be held Wednesday, with a formal march past, sports events and a ball in the evening.

More than 700 persons have been invited to attend the afternoon's program and about 200 guests will be present at the dance. They will come in large numbers from Vancouver, with a number being present from even farther afield.

Many a pretty debutante of Victoria and Vancouver will take time off from a variety of war duties to don her prettiest gown and dance in the great halls of the stone mansion that was once Hatley Park House, the home of the Dunsmuirs.

The girls who attend in the afternoon and are staying for the ball will be served a buffet supper and given changing facilities, so they won't have to return to town and thus waste gas and tires.

Lieut. Governor W. C. Woodward will attend and will officially open the ceremonies at 2.45, present prizes and take the salute. He is also expected to give a brief address.

Capt. J. M. Grant, R.C.N., commanding officer of the college, who recently returned from Great Britain, will speak to the cadets and the guests.

Following a display of physical training by the cadets, tea will be served on the tiled terrace and immediately below in the garden.

The navy band will be in attendance in the afternoon and the naval orchestra will play for the dance.

Commodore W. J. R. Beech, R.C.N., commanding officer, Pacific Coast, is expected to attend.

About 50 cadets will graduate, 30 of them to become midshipmen in Canada's permanent navy. The remainder will go into the volunteer reserve, to serve for the duration of the war. The youthful "middies" will leave shortly for England for further training.

Graham Lecture To Be Published
At a garden lecture Saturday afternoon at "Molton Combe," the home of Mrs. Sampson, for members and friends of the British Columbia Historical Association, Lt. Cmdr. Gerald S. Graham, R.C.N.V.R., so impressed his audience that it has been decided to publish his lecture in pamphlet form. Lt. Cmdr. Graham, formerly professor of history at Queen's University, Kingston, Ont., and now at the Royal Canadian Naval College, Esquimalt, spoke on "The Making of a Nation: Problems of Canadian Unity Since Confederation."

During the meeting community singing was led by Mrs. T. A. Rickard; recitations were presented by Mrs. T. A. Knox; and the organ, formerly the property of Mrs. David Dolg which played an important part in the early days of Dawson, Yukon Territory, was played by Mrs. George Phillips.

Dr. T. A. Rickard paid tribute to Mrs. Fitzherbert Bullen, an old and valued member of the association, whose birthday will be celebrated during the month.

Lost Shoes, Skips Bail On Drunk Count
Saturday night's activity in a Douglas Street Cafe, where he had his shoes removed in order to quell him, ended in City Police Court today for a naval rating who allowed his $25 bail to go rather than face a charge of being intoxicated in a public place.

City police, according to report, removed the sailor's shoes when he kicked them during the scuffle.

A.R.P. Activities
District 10—Special general meeting for all wardens will be held at Sir James Douglas School auditorium Wednesday night at 8. Sector leaders will meet at 7.30. The bomb display, canceled July 6, will be held Tuesday at 8 p.m.

Entry of the Victoria Lawn Tennis Club early today and theft of keys was reported to city police this morning.

Sicily Battle May Not End Quickly Says Premier King

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister King today said in the House of Commons that the "first critical period has passed" for Canadians engaged with the Allied forces invading Sicily, but "the most critical period is to come."

A hint that the Sicilian campaign is not officially expected to end quickly was given by the Prime Minister when he referred to Canadian interest "in the coming weeks" centring in the battle for Sicily.

"We should remember, too, that Sicily is only an outpost of Europe," he said. "Many other battleheads will have to be established before the final struggle even begins."

EFFORTS BY ENEMY

Reports, he said, indicated counterattacks had already commenced.

He said Canadians should be proud their men were engaged in the forefront of this first assault on Europe.

The Canadian force engaged was "substantial," Mr. King said, but he could give no details.

The newspapers were the best and quickest source of information in this campaign, Mr. King said, and he did not propose to give progressive bulletins on a regular schedule.

TO ADDRESS HOUSE

From time to time, as circumstances warranted, statements would be made in the House by himself or Defence Minister Ralston, in the same way as statements were made to the United Kingdom Parliament, Mr. King said.

There were Canadian squadrons among the air forces engaged in the assault, the Prime Minister said.

In the new phase of the war the army would share with the navy and the air force the heat of battle and the losses of battle.

"It will be a hard battle; a long battle. Something in our hearts tells us that this is the greatest cause for which men have ever been engaged in battle," he said.

Wheat Acreage Cut To Cost $26,000,000
OTTAWA (CP)—Agriculture Minister Gardiner said in the House of Commons Thursday night it was estimated the wheat acreage reduction program in western Canada would cost a total of $26,000,000 this year.

The expenditure last year was $21,000,000, the minister said during discussion of his department's 1943-44 fiscal year estimates.

Under the program farmers receive an acreage payment for land taken out of wheat production as full wheat production could not be marketed.

Their Priceless Heritage and a HEINTZMAN

No part of a child's education is more important than a Musical training—and in none is an early start so imperative. And we suggest that it is also important to start the youngsters with a full appreciation of their Pianoforte lessons by introducing them to the world of music through the world-famous Heintzman. Let us talk it over.

Lapel Badges Tell Army Service Story

OTTAWA—"By their badges ye shall know them," is sage advice for those who wonder at the meaning of lapel-badges worn by many Canadian men in civilian clothes. These men have been rejected by the armed services, or have been discharged from them.

Discharged soldiers of the present war wear a small, shield-shaped badge, surmounted by a crown. Within the shield is displayed a sprig of three scarlet maple leaves on a silver background. On the lower border of the shield are inscribed the words, "General Service." When you encounter a man wearing that badge, you know that he has served in the armed forces of Canada, and has been honorably discharged. Before being issued the badge, he declared his willingness to go back on Active Service again if the government ever needs his services.

Men who have applied for enlistment in overseas forces, and have been rejected because of physical deficiencies, wear a copper badge, light chocolate-brown in color. It is round-oval in shape, with a dark red enamel maple leaf in the center. Around the border you will find the words, "Applicant for Enlistment —Canada." The man wearing this badge tried honestly to join the army, but was refused because of some physical disability, and, before receiving his badge, agreed to enlist voluntarily at such time as medical standards permit his acceptance.

Here's Right Way To Go After Rheumatic Pains

Usually the Excess Acids Start to Leave the System in 48 Hours

Costs But Little—Guaranteed

Here's the swift, modern 48-hour way to get the excess pain-producing acids out of your system.
Go to any progressive drugstore—get a bottle of ALLENRU for Stubborn Rheumatic Pains or Backache. Friday night start right in taking Friday night —stay in bed as much as possible till Monday—morning—Allenru—acts. Double fact when the body is relaxed and rested.
So don't feel disappointed any longer;
don't give up hope of getting real relief. Allenru acts and acts fast and in three distinct ways: 1) to relieve the pain; 2) as a diuretic for the kidneys to flush out excess acids and 3) to arouse the bowels to normal action.
All good drugstores have been instructed to dispense ALLENRU with the understanding that if the first bottle does not give you the relief you want and have a right to expect, he will gladly refund your money without comment.

HOW TO RELIEVE PILE TORTURE

QUICKLY AND EASILY

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic! Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.
For this purpose get a package of Hemroid from Modern Pharmacy and Cunningham Drug Stores, or any drugstore, and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small, easy to take tablet, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use, is highly recommended and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such small cost.
If you try Hem-Roid and are not entirely pleased with the results, your druggist will gladly return your money.

Special Correction Classes Help Overcome Handicaps

A heartfelt gratitude, extending beyond the written tributes
they have submitted, is recorded in letters of appreciation received from parents by the city school board at the end of the last school year for the work done by Miss Mollie Crickmay, speech therapist employed by the city and surrounding districts.

The letters, in the majority of cases, are simple expressions of thanks. But they carry with them something deeper. They are charged with a new found hope from fathers and mothers who see their youngsters, previously suffering from mutilated speech, beating down the barriers to adequate oral expression and emerging normal in one of the most important developments in ordinary living.

"I was more than pleased with the improvement in my son's speech," wrote one mother.
"While his difficulties were not serious, I feel that if he had done nothing else all year but work at his speech as he has done, I would be well rewarded.
To allow a child to grow up with a speech difficulty and not try to remedy it is, to me, a crime against the child. My son and I,
together with Miss Crickmay, will have this cured within the next year. Thanks to Miss Crickmay, I know how to help him in his everyday speech. I thank the school board with all my heart for providing this service to the generation growing up now."

Writes another: "My son has made a marked improvement in his speech under the guidance of Miss Crickmay, and his speech is almost perfect for his age."
"My boy," states another letter, "does not hesitate now to start speaking as much as he did, and is not as self-conscious as he was about his stammer-
ing. I'd like him to continue as it seems to be helping him."

"We are very pleased with the progress made by our daughter, while under Miss Crickmay," writes another.

RESTORING NORMALCY

Those are samples of the response the Greater Victoria school boards have received from fathers and mothers whose children have been assisted by the treatment instituted a little over two years ago. Others are of a similar nature, reporting improvement ranging from medium to remarkable. It is a course which school authorities consider highly worthwhile, particularly in view of the desire to establish normalcy in young personalities which suffer from the hindering effect of some impediment.

Miss Crickmay came to Victoria late in 1940 when the blitz and evacuations had disjoined
the speech correction centre of Barking Bourough, Essex. She had served that district from 1936 to 1939, following earlier work with the Reigate Borough Council in Surrey, and seven years with the speech clinic under the Wimbledon Borough Council from 1929.

She came with distinguished qualifications, including a University of London diploma, honors diploma of the Central School of Speech Training, Royal Albert Hall, London; International Phonetics Certificate and the certificate of the London County Council Stammering Department. For two years she attended St. Thomas' Hospital speech clinic to increase her competency in her chosen field.

Since October of last year, 21 city children with speech defects were given special treatment. Of that number, nine have shown such marked improvement their speech is now normal, and the remainder have responded well.
Of the latter, seven still require assistance and 10 in schools in September were unable to secure inclusion in the corrective schedule.

They will doubtless receive attention when the next school year opens.
Educationists here appreciate very fully the work that is being done for those with speech difficulties. They realize the handicap defects are in themselves and the additional hazards they create in the way of warping natural personality develop-

Abbott, Costello Held Another Week

Only once in a decade do a "low" comedian and his "straight man" flash to the top in Hollywood.

But when those comedians come along, it is no mere "flash." In the case of Bud Abbott and Lou Costello, the "low" comedian and his "straight man" flashed straight to the top and stayed there.

Abbott and Costello are being held over at the Plaza Theatre in Damon Runyon's "It Ain't Hay," as the championship box office personalities of all time.

The Universal comedians were recently crowned kings of popularity in an official poll conducted annually among theatre men by Hollywood trade publications.

"Low" comedian is a trade term which means a comedian who depends more on pantomime and laughlines underlined with pathos than on sophisticated dialogue. Such a comedian is Costello, the ridiculously funny fat man who walks into the hearts of his audiences by being the underdog and butt of all jokes.

Supporting players in the musical comedy feature include Grace McDonald, Cecil Kellaway, Eugene Pallette, Patsy O'Connor, Richard Lane and Leighton Noble and his orchestra.

Slightly Dangerous Playing at Capitol

Lana Turner and Bob Young make a new comedy team in "Slightly Dangerous," the M-G-M film coming today to the Capitol Theatre.

There are any number of situations to keep you in stitches. Lana starts out as a soda "squirr" and winds up as the long lost daughter of a multi-millionaire. When Young starts chasing glamorous Lana from a small town to the crossroads of New York to save his good name, there is more fun packed into the hunt than a circus sideshow. Adding potent laughs to this mixture of comedy and romance are such prominent players as Walter Brennan, Dame May Whitty, Eugene Pallette, Alan Mowbray and a host of others. "Slightly Dangerous" is not too dangerous for a couple of good laughs, embellished with a flavored coating of entertainment plus.

DOMINION THEATRE

A story which could not have been told before "Pearl Harbor" comes to the screen in RKO Radio's "Flight for Freedom," starring Rosalind Russell and Fred MacMurray, and now being shown at the Dominion Theatre. It reveals the inside workings of naval intelligence plans in an adventure which sent a famed woman flyer to her death in the service of her country.

Stuart Erwin, Eugene Pallette, Jack Carson, George Tobias, and Harry Davenport head the supporting cast of able comedy players who help Cagney and Miss Davis to make "The Bride Came C.O.D." race along merrily without a let-up in the hilarity from start to finish.

Bishop Deplores Use of Veterans in Radio Features

Use of returned men in radio broadcast features, telling of their deeds in action, was deplored Sunday by Brig. G. A. Wells, D.D., senior Protestant chaplain of Canadian armed services at home and abroad, when he took the pulpit at the evening service at Christ Church Cathedral.

Brig. Wells, who is Bishop of the Cariboo in civil life, said he regretted to see men brought back from the various fronts placed in the position of having to tell the world of their own actions. "Brave men don't like to talk of their deeds," he said, expressing the hope that something would be done about it. Speaking from the story of Joshua calling the elders together instructing them to choose the path their people must take and saying "As for me and my house, we will serve the Lord," the brigadier said there had been much talk of "new orders" which were to follow the present catastrophic struggle. It was clear, he said, that whatever these "new orders" were, they must be based on the principles of Christianity—the eternal verities must be the foundation of society.

Some of the things he saw in his four recent trips across Canada were disturbing, said Brig. Wells. Staying for the most part in the leading hotels, what he saw indicated the people of Canada do not yet realize the full extent or nature of the struggle in which we are engaged.

Tropical Setting For White Cargo

Equatorial Africa, with its lush jungles, humid rivers and sweltering heat furnishes a shimmering backdrop for sultry "White Cargo," which comes today to the Cadet Theatre.

"It furnished, too, many a problem and many a smile for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer technicians. They enjoyed a field day.

Hottest job on the picture went to Stanley Campbell, make-up man. His duty was keeping the players hot. This was no small chore, since Walter Pidgeon, Frank Morgan and Richard Carlson are never seen without glistening faces and moist clothing. Campbell used five gallons of glycerine and water to keep the actors photographically steamy.

Voices in Bambi At York Realistic

Hearing one's voice emerge from an elephant or a squirrel never fails to startle even the most seasoned actor, according to the performers who give speech to Walt Disney's inimitable characters. This is particularly true, according to Thelma Hubbard, if you have forgotten in the first place that you ever spoke lines for a certain Disney character.

So it was that Miss Hubbard had the shock of her life when she recently saw "Bambi." "Bambi" was five years in production, altogether. Based on the famous Felix Salten Book-of-the-Month best-selling novel, it is Walt Disney's most adult production. Hailed as one of the screen's great love stories, it certainly is the first romance to be presented through the medium of animation. RKO Radio is distributing "Bambi," which is now being shown at the York Theatre.

Woolley, Lupino Co-Star at Atlas

Monty Woolley and Ida Lupino are starred in "Life Begins at Eight-Thirty," a film of heart-warming humor and tender drama, coming today to the Atlas Theatre.

Preview critics the country over have hailed the outstanding film, claiming that it maintains the difficult blend of farical comedy and serious drama throughout. The story is said to be rich with the humor of a man who laughed and let the world go by... tender with the courage of a girl who would not forfeit her right to romance.

The 20th Century-Fox picture features Cornel Wilde, Sara Allgood, Melville Cooper, J. Edward Bromberg and Edward Demarest. It was produced and written by Nunnally Johnson from a play by Emyln Williams, and directed by Irving Pichel.

"BAMBI IS SLEEPY," NOTES THUMPER—The world receives another great gift of joy from Walt Disney, who has created in "Bambi," his new feature, the character of Thumper, a cotton tail who is a born comedian in the great tradition of Dopey. "Bambi" is the picturization of the Felix Salten Book-of-the-Month Club best-selling novel, and is now being shown at the York Theatre.

Dorothy Dix:

Dear Miss Dix: I am a girl of 19 engaged to an awfully nice boy of 20. We want to get married soon, but if we do we will have to keep it a secret until I am out of school. He is leaving shortly for the army. Please tell us whether we should get married now and keep it a secret until I finish school, or wait until school is out and then get married.

UNDECIDED.
Answer: Wait by all means until after you graduate. Everything that is worth having is worth waiting for and, after all, it is such a little time before you graduate.

If you wait, you can have a wedding that you will always like to remember, with your family and friends about you and everybody giving you their blessing.

and wishing you good luck. And you can be proud to present your husband to your little circle. But if you marry secretly, it will have to be a hurried hole and corner affair, maybe just in a justice's office, with nobody but some bums they can drag in to be witnesses, nobody to even give you a good wish. And instead of having a romantic honeymoon, you will enter into a state of deception and lies that will keep you worked up and nervous and miserable.

Gallup Poll

Most U.S. Voters Back Roosevelt's Foreign Policy

PRINCETON — Evidence to support the belief that after this war, United States will not repeat the policy of withdrawal into western isolation is mounting. Continuous polls on American post-war ideas have shown that the American people are willing to assume the responsibility of international intervention. The two latest opinion surveys of the Gallup Poll show how far this abandonment of isolationism has gone.

In the first survey, attitude of the average American voter to Roosevelt's foreign policy and to his domestic policy was compared:

1. "Do you approve or disapprove of the way Roosevelt is handling our foreign policy—that is, our relations with other nations?"
The vote is: Approve 73 per cent, disapprove 14 per cent, undecided 13 per cent.
2. "Do you approve or disapprove of the way Roosevelt is handling our domestic problems—that is, our problems here at home?" Approve 49 per cent, disapprove 42 per cent, undecided 9 per cent.

INTERVENTIONIST

Significance of these figures, in so far as post-war policy is concerned, lies, of course, in the fact that years before Pearl Harbor, the President, in his foreign policy, was generally assumed to represent interventionist ideas. Chief criticism of those who disapprove Roosevelt's domestic policy in this survey was centred on the handling of the labor union situation.

The second survey was aimed at ascertaining the degree of public support behind the resolution, introduced into the House of Representatives by Representative Fulbright of Arkansas, committing the United States to a policy of intervention after the war. The Fulbright resolution, unanimously approved by the House Foreign Affairs Committee, is a short statement of policy which provides:

"That the Congress hereby expresses itself as favoring the creation of appropriate international machinery with power adequate to establish and to maintain a just and last peace among the nations of the world, and as favoring participation by the United States therein."

STARTS CONTROVERSY

Similar in general intent to the Ball resolution in the Senate, the Fulbright resolution has precipitated some controversy among political leaders; a number of whom feel that it goes too far toward committing the United States to post-war interventionism.

So far as the public is concerned, however, there is wide general acceptance of the principle that in the period after this war the United States should take a more active part in world affairs than it did after the last war.

Voters in the survey were handed a copy of the Fulbright resolution and asked:

"Do you want your Congressman to vote for or against this resolution?"

The results show an affirmative vote of nearly 8 to 2, as follows: For 78 per cent, against 9 per cent, undecided 13 per cent. One significant sidelight to this survey was that there was no important difference of attitude among Democrats and Republicans.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK (AP)—Early strength of copper and specialties spread to rails and selected industrials in the latter part of today's stock market with resultant gains running to a point or more for favorites, many of which touched three-year peaks. The advance was accomplished in relatively quiet dealings although blocks of 1,000 to 10,000 shares of low-priced issues, put the day's turnover at around 1,000,000 shares.

(By H. A. Ames & Co.)
Dow Jones averages closed today as follows:
30 Industrials 144.62, up 0.39
20 Rails 37.29, up 0.34
15 Utilities 21.85, off 0.10
Total sales, 1,044,120 shares.
